Carpenters Only Are Now to Strike for Eight Hours.

BIG FUND OF MONEY IS NEEDED.

The Indianapolis Bosses Yield to the Demands of the Men.

A MOB ATTACKS CHICAGO "SCABS"

Two Great Railroad Strikes Threatened—The Italian Slave Trade Still Flourishes in New York.

NEW YORK, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The American Federation of Labor has issued an address to all workers and sympathizers with the progress of America, requesting all except carpenters and joiners to refrain from taking action to secure concessions, until the first great struggle has been won. Their contributions will be needed in order to secure the success of the carpenters and joiners, who have been selected to make the first demand for enforcement of the eight hours a day May 1. If all the trades strike it will mean defeat for all, or at best only a temporary advantage. Contributions from all are solicited, and if the fund raised is not needed for the carpenters it will be devoted to aiding the next trade which is selected to demand the concession. Sympathizers who are not actual wage workers are also invited to contribute.

It was hoped that, ample notice being given, the apparent justice of the demand and the peaceful method of its presentation would have caused the concession to be gracefully yielded, but the hostile attitude of the boss builders at Chicago and Indianapolis is evidence that the employers intend to make stubborn resistance. In view of this the workingmen must stand all close together and concentrate their efforts as above recommended.

Following is an extract from the address:

It appears that the wealth, power and influence of the employing and corporate classes of the country are to be concentrated to defeat a movement which seeks not only to improve the condition of the employed, but which will find employment and consequently save from poverty, degradation and despair hundreds of thousands of our idle fellow-men and women. In view of this situation, it will be necessary for the wage-workers and their friends of America to rally with greater unanimity of purpose than ever before, to concentrate all their efforts to counteract and overcome the action of our enemies. They must voluntarily contribute their mite to place at the disposal of the American Federation of Labor a sum of money sufficient to meet all contingencies." Contributions should be sent to Christopher Evans, secretary of the federation, No. 2 Clinton place, New York. The address is signed by Samuel Gompers, president; William Martin, first vice-president; P. J. McGuire, second vice-president, and Henry Ellrich, treasurer.

This evening Gompers addressed a mass meeting in Chicago. He denounced as lepers the non-unionists who were now taking the places of the striking carpenters of Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—This morning a number of non-union carpenters went to work on some half finished cottages near Fifty-third and Wallace streets. Shortly after a crowd of union carpenters appeared and attempted to induce them to leave their work. They were deaf to all arguments. About 11 o'clock the crowd had increased to nearly 100 men, and they attempted to force the non-union men to quit. One of them resisted and was badly beaten. At this juncture Sergeant Bagley, who lives near, saw the commotion and went to the scene and attempted to arrest the fighting strikers. They at once turned on him, and he was also badly beaten with clubs and stones. During the fight the police station had been notified, and a patrol wagon with eight officers was dispatched to the scene. By the time they had arrived the strikers were in flight. The patrol pursued them and succeeded in capturing about thirty of them, who were marched to the station at Englewood and locked up. Sergeant Bagley was found to be badly injured and was taken to his home. The non-union men were put back to work, and are now guarded by police. The greatest excitement prevails, and more trouble is feared.

The labor situation this afternoon presents a more serious aspect. It is believed that by the first of May tradesmen numbering 25,000 belonging to the Federation of Labor will quit work in sympathy with the eight-hour movement. Should such be the case, the interests of the city will be badly demoralized. The arbitration committee of the new boss carpenters' association met a conference committee of the striking carpenters this afternoon. A thorough canvass of the situation showed that all the parties are agreed that the carpenters' strike can be amicably brought to a termination when the membership of the Bosses' Association is so far increased that they hold the balance of power among the builders and bosses of the city. To this end the committee of arbitration invites other associations of carpenters, bosses and builders to unite with them in a settlement of the questions.

All the brickmakers in the northern and northwestern parts of the city, to the number of 1200 men, struck to-day for a rate of 7000 bricks for a day's work instead of 8000, and that the pay remain the same. The bosses are not worried, as, owing to the carpenters' strike, everything is at a standstill in the building line.

PITTSBURG, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—To-day a committee of employes called on Superintendent Turner, of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad. They represented the Brotherhood of Railwaymen also, and left a petition for the consideration of the Pennsylvania company officials. The new list of grievances requests that ten hours or less shall be considered a day and five hours or less a half day, all overtime to be paid on the same basis. The pay asked is: Day conductors, $2 75; day brakemen, $2 50; night conductors, $2 90; night brakemen, $2 70. One hour shall be allowed for dinner. The committee will not insist on any other concessions. S. G. Wilkinson, grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, stated this evening that he did not believe there will be any trouble in adjusting the differences. In any event, a strike will be resorted to only after every other means has failed.

All classes of yard employes of the Pennsylvania railroad this morning asked for an advance in wages.

In addition to the trouble now on hand, the car inspectors, freight handlers, car cleaners, clerks in the freight offices and men employed in the transportation department will present in the morning a list of their grievances. The shopmen employed in numerous shops are also about to present certain demands. The situation to-night is all the more grave in that the men have not been idle, while the railroad officials have up to to-night treated the demands of the men with something like indifference. Grand Master Wilkeson says to-night that they can call out 14,000 men, and as the entire brotherhood is involved the strike will extend from New York on the east to New Orleans on the west.

MARTINEZ (Cal.), April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—About 500 Italians and Greeks are on a strike here in the salmon fishing business. The strike is general all up and down the straits, the cause being that the canneries will not pay more than 2½ cents a pound for fish. The fishermen do not want high prices, but only enough to make a living. The material for making nets is very high at present, and their expense very heavy. Some "scabs" have been fishing and the strikers use them pretty hard. One boat was caught and 400 fish thrown overboard. The strikers keep guard on the bay all the time. The men are very reticent and will not fish until they can receive better prices.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The sub-committee of the joint congressional committee on immigration continued its inquiry here to-day. T. B. McGuire, of the Knights of Labor, was further examined. He said the contract labor law does not work satisfactorily, owing to the neglect of the district attorney to prosecute cases brought to his attention. Immigration is being stimulated by steamship companies by misrepresentation. McGuire swore that the padrone system was in operation in New York, and that the padrones got places for Italian immigrants in the public works by paying the bosses, and in return charging the men for getting them employment.

BOSTON, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The striking employes at Squires & Co.'s packing house submitted a statement of grievances to Mr. Squires, but he refused to deal with them as a body, and advised them to get work elsewhere, as he would make no concessions and did not think they had any grievance. Mr. Squires sent for the foreman of the killers and desired them to go to work, but the foreman said the men were Knights of Labor and would not return unless the other employes were taken back. No disorder has yet occurred, but trouble is feared should new men be set to work.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—Committees from the striking carpenters' and contractors' associations met with Mayor Sullivan this afternoon, and after a five hours' conference reached an agreement which settles the eight-hour strike. The contractors agree to pay competent carpenters and joiners 30 cents an hour and concede the eight-hour day. About 500 men will resume work to-morrow.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The Indiana division of the Order of Railway Conductors, at a secret meeting held here, discussed the recent wholesale discharge of conductors by several lines centering here, and decided that the non-striking clause in the constitution should be stricken out. The division's representative to the annual meeting on May 15 was instructed to vote for repeal of the obnoxious clause.

CHICAGO, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Vice-President and General Manager C. E. Crosby, of the United States Express Company, arrived this morning. He declared that the company could not recede from its position on cutting down salaries. The probable result, if this is effected, will be a general strike throughout the entire system in all the cities of the United States.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—To-night eight more Eastern iron molders arrived to take the place of the strikers. They were brought from Rocklin in a special train, and at Army Point transferred to a tug, which took them to the Union Iron Works. Their arrival was a complete surprise to the strikers.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—John Bodenmiller, business manager of the Labor Signal, and well-known throughout the state on account of his efforts in behalf of organized labor, was drowned in the canal while boating this afternoon.

BOSTON, April 22.—A massmeeting of carpenters to-night adopted a resolution not to work over eight hours a day after May 1.

A REPORTER FOR POOL ROOMS.

How A Smart Newspaper Man Amassed a Huge Fortune.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The quarrel between the Dwyer's and the pool rooms of this city over the former refusing to send out entries of races on the day previous has caused investigation into the way H. C. Dittmus, formerly a racing reporter, came into the possession of his fortune, which is now estimated at over half a million dollars. Dittmus years ago saw money in reporting entries for the pool rooms. He went to the Dwyers, and for a small sum was given the sole privilege of sending out entries. From the Brooklyn track Dittmus went to Jerome, to Sheepshead Bay and to Monmouth. Everywhere he went he made different terms, giving some of the tracks nothing for the privileges and paying others. The result was that he collected over $1000 a day for years. Now he makes $600 a day. His monopoly will probably be broken next season.

A PRIVATE KENTUCKY FEUD.

One Man Arms Himself With a Warrant and Kills the Other.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 22.—The report comes from Cattlettsburg that Col. W. S. Smith, manager of the lumber company near Pineville, on Saturday shot and killed Frank Phillips. When the latter first met Smith some weeks ago he charged him with being the man who during the war had Phillips's father arrested and sent to prison. This Smith denied and apparently satisfied Phillips. That night, however, Phillips sought out Smith's quarters and shot him while in bed, inflicting a wound which was painful but not dangerous. When Smith recovered he got from Governor Fleming, of West Virginia, a requisition on Governor Buckner for Phillips's arrest. Under the authority from Governor Buckner Smith was attempting the arrest of Phillips when the latter was killed.

A Mammoth Shipment.

Chicago, Ill., April 22.—A long special train load of agricultural implements consigned to Russell & Co., Portland, Oregon, passed through this city to-day via the Burlington route. In consequence of the artistic decoration it created a great deal of comment and impressed all who saw it with the importance of the Pacific Northwest.

THE WORLD'S FAIR BILL PASSED

Political Poetry in the House—Several Appropriation Bills Ready—Anti-Trust Bill Favorably Recommended.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—[GREGONIAN Office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—At a meeting of the house republican caucus committee this afternoon the discussion showed that no material change in view had taken place since the last meeting before the caucus, although there was a more evident desire to come to some agreement with the senate committee. The silver men managed to secure one concession, in the shape of an amendment to the house committee bill, which offered to the senators a partial compromise, absolutely requiring the purchase of not less than 2,000,000 ounces of silver in each month, regardless of price. The committee was also willing to agree that treasury notes issued in the purchase of silver bullion shall be redeemed in coin or lawful money, as well as bullion, as proposed by the house bill, but persisted in retaining the promise that the government, and not the seller of the bullion, shall have the option of determining the medium in which the notes are to be redeemed. The two sub-committees will meet to-morrow afternoon for another conference.

Secretary Windom's letter on the silver question has caused considerable agitation among the silver men in congress, especially in the senate, where there is pronounced and open criticism of the secretary's policy. The secretary's letter is taken as the ultimatum of the administration on the subject, and seems to make the extreme silver men more determined than ever to defeat his plans. Senator Teller, a member of the silver caucus committee, says he doubts if there will be more caucuses in the senate, and that they are likely to go on with silver legislation, regardless of the opinion and preferences of the administration.

Representative Hitt, from the committee on foreign affairs, to-day reported to the house the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. The total amount appropriated by the bill is $1,490,562. The amount appropriated by the bill last year was $1,960,023, of which $500,000 was appropriated on account of Samoa and $15,000 for the Japanese indemnity.

The house committee on postoffices and postroads to-day completed the postoffice appropriation bill for the fiscal year of 1891. It carries an appropriation of $71,850,982, being $5,245,638 more than the appropriation for the current fiscal year.

The house committee on judiciary has ordered a favorable report on the senate bill to prohibit trusts.

IN THE SENATE.

Mitchell Speaks on Popular Election of Senators and Secret Sessions.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the senate Cockrell offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the superintendent of the census to communicate to the senate the forms of the rules and regulations adopted by him for obtaining statistics as to farm mortgages.

Plumb's resolution for the increase of treasury purchase and coinage of silver was presented. Eustis moved as an addition to it a further resolution that free coinage of silver is essential to the sound financial policy demanded by all the great interests of the country, and that, therefore, all laws limiting the coinage of silver ought to be repealed. Plumb consented to let the resolution lie over, to give Mitchell an opportunity to address the senate.

Mitchell addressed the senate in favor of the constitutional amendment proposed by him for the election of senators by popular vote. Already fifteen changes had been made in the constitution, and who could say any of them was not well advised? All those amendments led up logically to the pending proposition. The present system of electing senators, he declared, was unrepublican and vicious. It was in purpose a declaration that for some reason it was unsafe to commit the election of senators to a vote of the people, and a reflection on the honesty, capacity, or both, of the voting classes.

Among other things Mitchell declared that the secret executive session was no longer in harmony with the spirit of the age. It was a relic of monarchy, and should find no recognition in a republic. At the conclusion of Mitchell's remarks the resolution was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The house amendment to the National Zoological park bill was agreed to and the bill now goes to the president.

The District of Columbia appropriation bill was passed, and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

Nomination: John C. Fremont, of New York, to be major general on the retired list of the army.

IN THE HOUSE.

Political Debate Results on the Legislative Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the house Candler, of Massachussetts, moved that the house concur in the senate amendments to the world's fair bill. This being agreed to, the bill was finally passed, and will be sent to the president.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the legislative appropriation bill. Butterworth, in a brief explanation of the bill, said that in some of the bureaus there was substantially a civil pension list. It consisted of a number of old persons who had faithfully served the government in the past, but who were no longer able to perform their duties. They were carried on the rolls, but they were of no service to the government. The committee on appropriations had allowed an increase of the clerical force of the civil service commission substantially as requested by the commission.

Dockery criticised the bill. It provided for the appointment of 141 new officers, at a cost of $161,500. Referring to the civil pension list, he said that in the departments there were employed 397 persons who were wholly or partially inefficient but who drew salaries amounting to $350 000 He believed that if there was new blood in the departments 150 clerks could be discharged, at a saving of $150 000 a year

Allen from Mississippi quoted from a speech delivered by Cannon and used as a campaign document, declaring that the republican party was devoted to the country and would, if it came into power, administer economically and greatly reduce the expenditures He then quoted from the civil service planks of the republican party and from President Harrison's letter of acceptance The republican party had gone back on its promises and he wanted to call the attention of the country to the civil service presentations of the administration

Allen recalled a story, as showing a republican opinion of the administration It was to the effect that meeting a republican and asking him what he thought of it he received the following reply

Wanny runs the Sunday school
Levi runs the bar,
Baby runs the White house,
And damn it here we are

Bland addressed himself to the discussion of the monetary question He had never regarded this question as a party one, but from the fact that the republicans were holding caucus after caucus, it would seem that they were going to make it one Let the bill be brought in as any other business was brought in not under the gag law of caucus. He then proceeded to speak in favor of unlimited coinage of silver, and characterized the Windom bill as a demonetizing bill

Cannon replied to Dockery's criticism In view of the record of the last administration and the last congress it seemed the gentleman had swallowed a camel then and was now straining at a gnat. In the fiftieth congress there were created 986 offices, with an aggregate expenditure of $1 164,000 The increase of salaries made by the pending bill was only $50 000. The increase of salaries made in the fiftieth congress was $1 200 000

Williams of Illinois criticised the republicans of the house for not bringing in a bill for settlement of the silver question and thus relieving the oppressed people of the country

Grosvenor said the anxiety manifested on the democratic side in regard to the popularity and success of the administration was the best sign that the republican side ought to be satisfied with the administration Speaking of the civil service system, he said he could not believe the law and its administration was approved by one-fifth of the members of the house of congress He was told there was on the eligible list enough young men and women to fill places for twenty five years to come Yet young men and women in his district were cajoled and urged to spend time and money in being examined when the men who issued the invitations knew the chances were that not one in a thousand would get a position

Lodge defended the civil service law and resented its being characterized as a humbug and fraud

Without finishing the bill the committee rose and the house adjourned

A BLACK NAVAL CADET.

Representative Cheatham Will Probably Appoint a Youth of His Own Race.

WASHINGTON April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special]—Appointments of naval cadets are beginning to flow into the navy department to fill the vacancies that will be caused by the graduation of the class in June There is one vacancy already existing that is not yet filled and that attracts some attention among the officers This vacancy is to the credit of Representative Cheatham, of the Second district of North Carolina, the only colored man in congress, and it therefore becomes a direct probability that the new cadet will be of the dark race This will be the second instance of the kind, and the outcome will be noted with intense interest by every man in the service. But Cheatham is holding off without giving any indication of what he intends to do, and will probably not announce his appointment until late in the season

PEOPLE FLEEING FOR LIFE.

Terrible Suffering in the Flooded Section of Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS April 22.—Governor Nichols has received the following from Bayou Sara

We have been overwhelmed by storm and rain Crevasses are numerous along the front. The old Morgan levee has broken Send boats at once to save the people, or there will be great loss of life.

Governor Nichols at once made arrangements with the owners of the steamer Arthur Lambert and barges, then at Baton Rouge, and the boats started immediately for Point Coupe with barges to render assistance Other boats will be sent Governor Nichols was interviewed this evening, and stated that Captain Jackson, president of the International Transportation Company, had placed two steamers with barges at his disposal He had accepted them and they are now en route for Morgan za. He stated that he had also telegraphed Colonel Wheelock and Captain John A. Grant, of the Texas & Pacific railroad, requesting them to place the steamer Wheelock in the same service. The Texas & Pacific railroad officials in this city are in great fear of the overflow Their lines traverse Morganza county

The suffering in Pointe Coupee is terrible. It is reported that people are resorting to trees for safety Skiff loads of people are passing through over the inundated streets, seeking safety in the hills The situation in Bayou Sara is frightful. There is not a house in town above the flood The break at Morganza is now 400 feet wide, and no doubt will soon eat its way down to New Morgan There are three breaks between this place and Morgan, and the river is washing over the levees along the entire line.

WEST MELVILLE La April 22.—Two crevasses occurred in the Atchafalaya levees to-day one five miles above town, eighty feet wide the other at Old Churchville, fourteen feet wide The water is running over the levee at a dozen places in this vicinity.

JACKSON Miss., April 22.—The protection levee in front of Vidalia broke to day submerging a number of houses The Lake Concordia levee gave way at 5 P M. The break is fifteen feet wide and the water is going through like a mill race This break will flood the lower part on of Concordia parish and cannot fail to be disastrous

A HOUSE FILLED WITH PLUNDER

The Astoria Gas Well Still Smells Strong—Suicide in Seattle—Damage Suit For Breach of Promise.

SEATTLE, April 22.—The police at 4 A M raided the Alma house, in Whitechapel, and captured eight well known thieves and recovered a large amount of stolen goods The house has long been regarded as a fence for thieves Day before yesterday one of the inmates was caught selling a lot of stolen goods, and this led to the raid Seven men and one woman comprised the gang The woman's name is Frankie Adams and the men's William Smith Martin Miller G D Jones, David McMinn, Frank Murphy, L E McCutcheon and James H McCutcheon.

The booty taken from the various rooms was evidently part of that taken in at least twenty burglaries that occurred during the past winter The articles were mostly things that could not be disposed of at present In every room in the house goods were found.

NEWS FROM ASTORIA.

The Subterranean Gas Reservoir—Work on the Jetty

ASTORIA, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special]—Work has been stopped in the Warrenton gas well and will not be resumed until better implements are secured. The drill has been driven down to slate This is one of the best indications for a good deposit of coal, and also for a flow of gas The strata so far have been found almost exactly the same as those in Southern New York Mr Harrison, who has been doing the work at his own expense, has made a proposition to the property-owners of Warrenton to sink a six inch well if they will share the expense. It will cost about $5000, and as several men interested in the development of that locality have signified a willingness to join in the necessary outlay the prospecting will soon go on Notwithstanding the fact that the pipe has been driven several feet into the solid rock, gas still forces its way out at intervals showing that there must be good pressure behind it G Wingate who has had years of experience with coal and natural gas, was at Warrenton yesterday and says he expects to see a good flow of gas secured

Work on the jetty is progressing rapidly Since the first of April the men have filled in to the extent of 700 feet, representing about 1000 tons of rock per day There is a working contingent of 150 men at the jetty, and the present outlook is encouraging

The steamer Cascades tows daily two barges filled with rock from Cooper's Island ing to Scow bay and they are then taken in tow by the Mendell, which carries them to the jetty

GENERAL ALGER'S TRAVELS.

Wonderful Growth of the G. A. R.—Michigan Forests Nearly Gone.

SAN FRANCISCO April 22.—[Special Telegram]—Before leaving for San Jose General Russell Alger of Michigan in speaking of his tour among the department encampments of the various states, said

I have just been in attendance at the Iowa encampment at Des Moines and one in Missouri, at Jefferson City The one at Des Moines was attended by over 5000 soldiers The California encampment will be the twenty-second I have been present at since I began my tour in January I started with the New England States and made my way West and due to it makes me firm in my belief that the Grand Army is in a most flourishing condition to day We have now on the rolls in good standing 400 000 old soldiers, and are increasing in membership at the rate of 45,000 a year During the last quarter of 1889 the increase was a little over 11,000, and this was the actual increase over the losses by death and the dropping off of members for non payment of dues.

'I intend to leave for Oregon Friday night going direct to Ellensburgh to attend the Washington encampment I am interested in the Fort Bragg and Noyo lumber companies, which are to build their annual meetings the last of the week

The future lumber supply of the country is on this coast and in the South Much of the timber in the Southern states is not good for finishing purposes but makes good building lumber The redwood and fir on this coast is good for both purposes. The market for both is at present small in the East. Some redwood has found its way into the Chicago market but the railroad rates are unfavorable to large shipments to the East. However, I am in hopes of getting favorable rates some of these days. The time cannot be distant when the coast shipments of lumber to the Eastern market will assume very large proportions The lumber supply of Michigan and the surrounding country is failing rapidly The large tracts owned by some of the syndicates are almost cleared and many more will be exhausted in four or five years In eight years from now there will not be any supply at all from that section."

SAN JOSE, April 22.—The twenty third annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic of California was held to-day The city is decked in the brightest national colors and presented a beautiful appearance. There was general suspension of business and the streets were crowded The day was all that could be desired Probably 1000 or 1200 men were in line The procession was under the supervision of G W Gausleln, grand marshal General Alger arrived in a private car this morning and in company with Governor Waterman and staff reviewed the parade in his carriage in front of the courthouse.

After a long executive session occupying all afternoon the G A R encampment elected the following officers Commander A J Buckles Salem, son of vice-commander, A B Minto, San Jose, junior vice commander W F Wharff San Francisco, medical director M T Price Colton, chaplain J A. Cruzan, San Francisco, council of administration W H Seaman W F Randall, San Jose C B Grass and S J Whipple A grand banquet took place to-night

A grand banquet was held at G A R. Horticultural hall this evening. Seats were provided for 1364 people, and all were occupied There were 1000 spectators in the gallery. Among the distinguished guests present were Governor Waterman and staff, General Alger, Mrs Alger, Mrs John A. Logan and others Mrs. Logan's appearance created great applause. In responding to the toast 'The Grand Army" General Alger said 'In reflecting on the prosperity of California it should not be forgotten that it is all due to the services of the G A R. Without the deeds of the boys in blue the country would have been ruined, and the Pacific coast never developed The G A R does not want pay for their blood, but gratitude demands that they should be cared for Addresses were made by Governor Waterman, Judge Buckles, Mayor Rucker and others After the banquet a reception was held to shake hands with General Alger and Mrs Logan General Alger will go north to-morrow with his party.

B.—This cure was effected Sept. 24, 1887, and is confirmed by letter, Feb. 24, 1890.

Cured by Cuticura

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary cure your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like common freckles on my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on when it began to look like spots of mortar set on and when it came off in layers accompanied with itching I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country but without any relief. After giving up all hopes of recovery I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES and purchased them from my druggist and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared, one by one and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA REMEDIES and in four or five weeks was entirely cured My disease was eczema and psoriasis I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them and thank me for the knowledge of them especially mothers who have babies with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's GEO. COTEY.

VIOLENCE WILL COME.

A Socialist Member of Parliament Declares Himself.

DENOUNCES PARNELL

Remark Betrays Secrets While Intoxicated—Devitt Rejects Parnell's Bill—Belgium Honors Stanley.

LONDON, April 22.—In the commons tonight Bradlaugh severely attacked Cunninghame Graham for inciting a strike among starving laborers. He contended that the condition of the working classes had enormously improved, and that in this respect England stood in advance of every country in Europe.

Graham made repeated but futile efforts to interrupt Bradlaugh, and denied that he had incited the people to violence, but said he would do so the moment the workers became powerful enough.

LONDON, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.] —The employers' liability bill introduced in parliament by Home Secretary Matthews before the Easter recess falls very far short of satisfying the representatives of labor. The present act is exceedingly faulty, and has not worked satisfactorily either to the employer or the employe. During the last three years claims have been made to the amount of £150,000, less than £20,000 of which were recovered. The uncertainty of securing their rights under the act caused workingmen to hesitate to submit claims, preferring rather to accept what the employer chose to give. The new bill aims at correcting the faults of the present act, but the trades unions declare that while in some respects it is superior to the existing law, in many important points it is obscure and unsatisfactory. The contract clause, which allows a workman to consent to waive the advantages he receives under the act for what he considers an adequate consideration, has always been a bugbear to the workingmen, and the trades unions demand its abolition. Experience shows that employers have made tyrannical use of this loophole, by compelling men, under threat of dismissal, to consent to the surrender of their rights. The new bill simply refers the question to county courts, and leaves the matter much in the same condition as before.

BERLIN, April 22.—Rhenish and Westphalian miners yesterday adopted resolutions denouncing any convention with socialists, and favoring the formation of a new union on a Christian and patriotic basis.

BISMARCK TALKS WHEN DRUNK.

He Tells How the Emperor Came to Remove Him.

BERLIN, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.] —The Freisinnige Zeitung publishes what purports to be remarks made by Prince Bismarck to a deputation of the Manufacturers' Association, which waited upon him on April 16. In the course of his address the ex-chancellor is alleged to have said that he would gladly have remained in office had the emperor expressed a desire that he should do so. He attributed his removal to the intrigues of his opponents, especially to the machinations of a minister who owed his position to him. Prince Bismarck is said by the Zeitung to have admitted that he differed with the emperor on the labor question. Bismarck further said he had placed the intercourse of the ministers with the crown under the control of the president of the council, with the object of frustrating intrigues. He expressed his belief that the action of Dr. Windthorst in begging an interview with him, at which the clerical leader made impossible demands was also a trap set for him.

The Zeitung expresses the opinion that previous to his speech to the deputation Prince Bismarck had indulged too freely in stimulants.

PARNELL'S LAND BILL.

What His Followers Don't Understand It —Radicals a Solid Force.

LONDON, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—In presenting his land scheme, which he offers as a substitute for the complicated measure introduced by Balfour, Parnell has succeeded in mystifying his friends as well as his opponents. While they will naturally support a measure framed by the leader of their party the nationalist members feel that they are entitled to a full explanation of the scheme, which many of them unhesitatingly admit they do not understand. In some respects, they are free to say, the plan appears to offer fewer benefits than that of the government.

The radical faction in the house of commons, headed by Labouchere, is organizing a stronger opposition than any of the other political divisions to the government's Irish land bill when it shall reach the committee stage.

The Daily News believes that a number of the Parnellite party in parliament were totally unaware of Parnell's land scheme until they heard it announced by him in the house. Many of Parnell's followers, and particularly Michael Davitt, are said to heartily disapprove the plan.

PARNELL EMERGES UNSTAINED.

Opinion Finds That His Wife Was Not Intimate With the Statesman.

LONDON, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.] —It is stated that the case of Captain O'Shea against his wife and Mr. Parnell will not be brought to trial, but will be settled out of court within a very short time. The basis of settlement is not yet known, but it is understood to involve an unconditional retraction of the charges against his wife and the Irish leader, under the influence of newly-discovered and convincing evidence that the allegations were unfounded.

CABLE NOTES.

Captured by Bandits in the Holy Land.

LONDON, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.] —The government is in receipt of an official communication from A. J. Moore, British consul at Jerusalem, reporting the capture by Arab brigands in Arabia Petra of Mr. Graham, a prominent solicitor of Liverpool, with his wife and their attendants. The report states that Mr. and Mrs. Hill have been journeying through the Holy Land for some time, were captured by a band of Arabs while they were viewing the ruins of the old city of Petra, and carried to the common rendezvous of a number of predatory bandits, pending negotiations for their release upon payment of heavy ransom. The prisoners at once communicated with Moore who paid the sum demanded by the brigands and the hostages were set at liberty after a week's captivity. They were offered no indignities during their confinement.

Stanley in Society at Brussels.

BRUSSELS, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Stanley was entertained at a garden party given in his honor at the grounds of the palace of Laeken this evening. Fifteen hundred guests were present, including many notables.

A complimentary fete in honor of Stanley was given on the bourse this afternoon by the Society of Engineers. The king and royal family were present. The king delivered a speech and spoke in eulogistic terms of Stanley.

DEFENSELESS PACIFIC COAST.

The Eastern States Ignore the West in Appropriation Matters.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The Bulletin, in a long editorial this evening, says: The states of the Pacific coast need harbor improvements, fortifications and public buildings. Heretofore when an appeal has been made for such concessions the response from Washington, if made at all, has never been a hearty one. Why should it be more difficult to obtain the necessary appropriations for the Pacific coast than for the Atlantic coast. General Nelson Miles, military commander of the Pacific coast, in his recent report set forth the fact that this coast was comparatively defenseless. From San Diego to Puget Sound there are no adequate fortifications. He shows that the cost of transporting the more than 1000 guns that are needed on this coast would exceed the additional cost of constructing them here. Why, then, should they not be constructed on this coast? There is no gun in position on the American shores of Puget Sound, and no ship-of-war belonging to this country is in those waters. Occasionally a revenue cutter is seen on the Sound. There are at nearly all times British men-of-war at Esquimalt which are able to command the entrance of Puget Sound. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has asked for defenses for San Pedro bay. General Miles shows that there is no part of our extensive seaboard that could be more easily defended than the Pacific coast, or at least the principal harbors of this coast. Such points as San Diego, San Francisco, Puget sound and the mouth of the Columbia river could be put into a condition of complete defence without the building of any extensive forts. Of San Francisco this authority suggests that "a perfect Gibraltar" could be made by merely fortifying the bluffs on either side of the entrance of the harbor.

The editorial concludes as follows: That is, in brief, the appeal that is made in behalf of the Pacific coast. It is for the supremacy of commerce, the adequate protection of the great harbors and the cities which have been built upon their margins.

THE OKLAHOMA ANNIVERSARY.

Rejoicing and Mourning, for Capt. Couch Was Being Buried.

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—A year ago to-day Oklahoma became part of the public domain. The anniversary of the event was fittingly celebrated throughout the country. In every city public meetings were held to give expression to the feelings of the settlers. At Oklahoma City, instead of rejoicing, there was mourning over the death of Captain Couch. His funeral occurred at noon, and it brought together a large concourse of people.

To-day had been decided upon by the Cherokee boomers as a fitting time to move upon the Cherokee strip. No trouble occurred, however, the settlers having determined to obey President Harrison's order to keep off the Indian lands until formally opened to settlement by congress.

The Sioux Accept Land in Severalty.

PIERRE, S. D., April 28.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The Indian powwow which began Sunday at Bat River, did not adjourn until last night. John Grass, Red Cloud and Sitting Bull were present, and also a portion of Big Foot's band, in their war paint. Colonel Lounsbury spoke in behalf of the government. Chief Grass urged the Indians to take land in severalty. He was interrupted by Big Foot, who with his band rode through the gathering, firing their guns. They were quelled by the Indian police. With the exception of these hostiles, the Indians agreed to accept the lands in severalty.

Working Like a Galley Slave.

London Truth.

No galley slave ever was harder worked than was the Prince of Wales during his week's stay at Berlin, and he must have been truly delighted to get away from that city. From morning to night the prince was either paying formal visits or receiving them, or else witnessing military parades. Those visits, moreover, required a constant changes of costume, for some must be paid or received in plain dress, others in a Prussian uniform, and others in a British uniform. There is also a tiresome etiquette about the wearing of orders which is very troublesome.

WORK OF THE LOGGER.

He Levels the Forest and Makes Way for the Farmer.

PIONEER IN THE PATH OF PROGRESS

Northwick's Camp on the Columbia—The Law That Forbids Homesteaders Selling Timber From Their Claims.

The rapidity with which new regions are cleared of forest and opened up to agriculture is wonderful compared with the slow progress of settlement that marked the redemption of the timber-producing states of the Middle West from the wilderness sixty years ago. Improved machinery for the manufacture of lumber, increased demand for the product and the nearness and number of markets open to the manufacturer, make the mill saw a very sword and leveler of civilization measured by the short work it makes in thinning the ranks of the forest. There is no limit to the energy and enterprise of these lumbermen. Fire frequently strikes them and burns up their whole plant and stock, but the next year we find them with a new mill erected, with a band of loggers slashing down trees early and late to feed it.

Among object lessons of this sort is one afforded by the Columbia River Lumber and Fuel Company, located on Gobel creek about three miles and a-half from Hunter's station on the Columbia. About a year ago this company secured 1000 acres of virgin forest, and began work. By the 1st of September 1889 a fine mill was completed, capable of cutting 60,000 feet of lumber a day. A flume nearly four miles in length conveys the lumber, consisting of ties, rough and dressed lumber, and railroad timber, from the mill to the company's wharf at the mouth of Gobel creek. With this flume is connected another flume for the transportation of wood of which the company has already cut 15,000 cords, besides 7,000,000 feet of timber since September last. Besides erecting the mill and flumes, the company has built a fine store, with a large pavilion above, a place of recreation for the men who meet there in the evening for diversion, and on Saturday evenings hold a dance to which the neighboring ranchmen with their wives and daughters come, making with the wives of the workmen a large and pleasant company. The messhouse and dining hall for the workmen is a well-built structure with ample accommodations for 200 persons. Above the messhouse are the offices and private rooms of the officers of the company. The timber is of excellent quality. Out of a single log thirty-two feet long 2600 feet of lumber is often obtained, and a single tree sometimes furnishes 4000 feet. The capacity of the flume is sufficient to transport 500,000 feet in a day of ten hours. The Northern Pacific railroad by June will be extended to Gobel station, which will give the company full facilities for shipment, as there will be a side track from the main line to the company's wharf. Gobel station will take the place of Hunter's, which is now the point of landing for the ferryboat from Kalama. The company employs about 150 men in the various work of logging, cutting, fluming and boating its lumber and wood products. With the store, the mill, the messhouse and the cottages for the workmen, there is already quite a little village where a year ago there was a primitive forest. The neighboring ranchmen find a market at their own doors for all supplies in shape of food for man and beast they can spare for the lumber camp, where 150 men and fifty head of cattle must be fed daily. The manager of the company is H. B. Borthwick, whose mill on the Columbia, in Skamania county, Washington, was destroyed by fire in September, 1888. His mill, manufactured lumber, stock, store and all his outbuildings made a loss of at least $25,000 outside of all insurance. Taking what little he saved from the wreck, Mr. Borthwick organized the company of which he is the present manager, and within a year after his great disaster had a new mill completed and cutting a large swath into the forest. His experience and his story is not peculiar, for it has been the experience of many others, but we have been at pains to recite it as showing what irrepressible, energetic men are these loggers who, undismayed by calamity, push on like Alexander to spread their conquests further. To such men is due the rapid settlement of our new states; their lumber camps are succeeded, when the marketable timber is cut, by farmers, for the land is excellent for agricultural purposes, and the buildings can easily be utilized as farm dwellings and outbuildings. A melancholy spectacle to a stranger visiting a timber tract is the legal destruction of timber by fire. The government will not allow the settler to cut down the timber on his claim and sell it, but allows him to burn it, and in this way vast quantities of timber are destroyed. The amount of timber destroyed in this way is an absolute loss, while the timber stolen by trespassers on government land is not an absolute loss, as some one gets the benefit of it. To an ordinary observer it looks as if some legislation might be devised under which the timber cut by the settler on his claim might be better disposed of than by forcing him to burn it, since he is not permitted to sell it. Major Powell, of the United States geological survey, describes a single forest fire in the Rocky Mountains which destroyed more timber than has been used by the people of Colorado for the last ten years, and declares that he has witnessed more than a dozen such fires. One of these fires he started himself by kindling a fire at the foot of a great pine. The flame set the whole tree in a blaze, and from its pyramid of fire the wind bore the sparks to other trees, and soon the whole forest was ablaze. Compared with the trees destroyed by fire those used by men sink into insignificance. One-half the forests of Utah have been thus consumed since the occupation of the country by civilized man. Those rage now here, now there throughout the Rocky Mountains, the Cascades and the Sierras. Concerning the practical methods by which the forests can be preserved from the terrible fires Major Powell says: "All of the forest areas that are not dense have some value for pasturage purposes. Grasses grow well in the open grounds, and to some extent among the trees. If herds and flocks crop these grasses, and trample the leaves and cones into the ground, and make many trails through the woods, they destroy the conditions most favorable to the spread of fire. But if the pasturage is crowded, the young growth is destroyed and the forests are not properly replenished by a new generation of trees. The wooded grounds that are too dense for pasturage should be annually burned over at a time when the inflammable materials are not too dry, so that there may be no danger of great conflagration."

His Narrow Escape.

Chicago Tribune.

"Mr. Brudwolgh," said the lovely Boston girl, a flush mounting her pale forehead and her voice trembling slightly, "I will not deny that your avowal moves me strangely. I cannot disguise the fact that my heart pleads for you. But in matters that involve the whole future happiness of two human beings no step should be lightly taken, Mr. Brodwolgh," she continued, softly wiping her spectacles, "while I should not look upon your residence in another city as a wholly insurmountable barrier to our union, there is, nevertheless, other things to be considered. You are not aware, possibly that I am a vegetarian?"

"Are you, indeed?" exclaimed the young man delightedly. "Why, so am I! Miss Howjames—my own dear Emersonia, I—"

One moment, Mr. Brodwolgh. It may seem trivial to you, but it, I am persuaded, a matter of vital importance that we should entertain harmonious views in particulars as well as generals. Pardon me, but what are your preferences among vegetables?"

The young man's arms dropped to his side again.

"The vegetables to which I am—er—addicted," he replied, "are tomatoes, cabbages, turnips, rice, rutabagas, eggplant, beets, sweet corn, peas, tomatoes, lettuce, parsley, and mangle-wurzel. I also eat a great deal of oatmeal and cracked wheat."

"Nothing else Mr. Brodwolgh?" inquired Miss Howjames anxiously.

"Of course I use all the principal fruits," he said. "I consider apples, peaches, pears, grapes, melons, cherries, currants and berries of all kinds are really vegetables."

"You have omitted from your list nothing that is that seems to you peculiarly and distinctively brute-producing and—but I represent strictly vegetarian in itself?' she said with an effort.

"Nothing that I can think of. I have mentioned all the varieties, I think, that I—but why this agitation, Miss Howjames? Are you ill? Have I—"

"Mr. Brodwolgh," faintly spoke the young lady, "in the agony of this disappointment, the keenest that I have ever felt, and whose bitterness you, too, must share—"

"Emersonia Howjames!" he exclaimed in a thrilling voice, a light breaking in upon him, "did I forget to mention beans? Did I omit beans? Why, beans, my darling, are my very life!"

She fell into his outstretched arms, they mingled their tears of ecstasy together, and New York and Boston again communed in spirit, as they have done once in a great while from the beginning, to occasionally even now, and probably ever shall do at rare intervals world without end.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The stocks were less active and weaker to day. The feature was large trading and wide fluctuations in sugar refineries. It continued its remarkable rise during the forenoon to-day, being the tenth successive day upon which it moved upward, and the extent of the improvement has reached about 10 per cent. A reaction came late in the day, being sharp and sudden, and the decline from its highest point was 2½, while after a rally it finally closed only a shade better than the lowest figure. The market closed dull. Final changes are principally declines, but only for small fractions. Government steady.

On Saturday the Odd Fellows of The Dalles will celebrate the 71st anniversary of the establishment of that order in the United States.

James Jordan, of Birch creek, stated recently at Pendleton that one band of his sheep has increased nearly 100 per cent. for the season.

The brick yards at Weston have been increased in capacity and they now employ a very large number of men, and burn out an immense quantity of good brick.

S. S. Reynold, an Illinois capitalist who is looking over the field of enterprise at Pendleton, states that there will be a large immigration from his state to Oregon this season.

The Hood River Glacier says: The Sandy bottom shingle mill has bolts on hand for about 700,000 shingles. The mill is running, and as soon as the road will permit they will be placed in the market here. There is a large quantity of excellent cedar in the neighborhood, and we are pleased indeed to know that its owners are determined to utilize it.

It is reported that the carcasses of several hundred sheep are lying on the banks of Mill creek, and in their decomposed condition are mingling with the water. This is at present the source of the supply of water for The Dalles, and something should be done immediately to remove these sheep, or else the health of the city will be greatly impaired.

The present council being elected on an economical platform, says the Pendleton East Oregonian, is endeavoring to carry the principles out in every practicable way. It has been thought possible to reduce the day police force for a time, at least, without menacing the welfare of the city, and the marshal was instructed at Saturday evening's meeting to do so if he thought proper.

A drunken man attempting to wheel a barrow through the streets at The Dalles Saturday furnished a great deal of amusement to many citizens, says the Times-Mountaineer. In his vain efforts to keep his equilibrium he had many falls, and became such a cause of disturbance to pedestrians that the officer plied him and his barrow into an express wagon and sent him home.

Speculation is rife over the probable action of the convention of the Union party, which convenes in Pendleton Wednesday. From the best information obtainable, reports the East Oregonian of the 21st, it is learned that the convention will indorse certain candidates on both tickets for county offices and will probably instruct its delegates to the state convention to indorse Pennoyer.

The company who have been boring for coal near Chenoweth creek in Wasco county for some time past have struck a fine flow of artesian water, sufficient, it is said, to fill a five-inch pipe, so says the Times-Mountaineer. There are indications of coal, but it is not known yet whether the vein is large enough to pay working. This will be tested in a little while, and the facts made known.

John Posy, of Soldier Creek, seventeen miles from Jordan valley, committed suicide on April 5 by shooting himself in the head. His wife was away at the time visiting some of her near neighbors. Posy was all alone when he committed the act. He has lived in this county for the last twenty years and generally liked by all who knew him. It is reported that the people of the neighborhood will see that provision is made for the widow.

WASHINGTONIANA.

Tacoma will soon have a dry dock. The narrows on the west side of town have been selected as a site.

The people of Centralia are so healthy that the physicians there have little to do, and the undertakers less.

The Seattle Press Club has been established. Rules have been adopted and officers will be elected next Sunday.

The Seattle chief of police has decided to enforce the ordinance to compel the removal of signs from across the streets and walks of that city.

The Devil's Playground, near Puyallup, for years the center of attraction for Indian horse racing and gambling, has given way to the march of progress. The owner has laid it off into lots and acre tracts and it will soon be a part of the town.

The Seattle Journal, while admitting that there are some serious questions between the laboring men and the employers of that city, believes that no open rupture will take place. Neither Seattle or Portland can afford the luxury of a prolonged strike. There are too many houses to build.

George W. Clancy, an old farmer, living on Dry creek near Walla Walla, has lately shown evidence of insanity. A few days since he deliberately cut down a splendid orchard, from which he realized the sum of $1300 last season. Some time previous to this he threatened to kill his wife. It is stated that the members of his family are in mortal terror of bodily harm.

Public parks are the breathing places—the lungs—of large cities, and the more parks there are in a city the better the health of the inhabitants is sure to be, says the Tacoma News. Tacoma has a great deal of nature at her very doors, and the need of parks is not as apparent now as it will be a little later in the history of the city when the population is ten times the present number.

Councilman I. E. Jones and deputy county treasurer Byron Phelps, of Seattle, while driving about four miles north of Green lake Monday, came across a large black bear, which crossed the road ahead of them about 150 yards away. They had a light shot gun with them, but the bear kept out of range and escaped in the woods. The gunners also kept out of range of the bear and escaped down the road.

St. John, Whitman county, is a new town, trying to forge to the front. It is one year old and it counts among its attractions a good church organization, a good railway depot, a fine grain elevator, two general merchandise stores and a grocery, all well stocked, a drugstore, a postoffice, furniture store, livery stable, blacksmith shop, schoolhouse, doctor's office, a cottage hotel and a town pump. Arrangements are being made to turn a deserted saloon into a schoolhouse building.

A special from Kelso to the Post-Intelligencer dated April 20, says: Yesterday afternoon while John Taft was walking along the railroad, a few miles south of Castle Rock, he was attacked by three men supposed to be tramps, who relieved him of about $25 and a silver watch. The robbers then compelled him to take poison and left him to his fate. Fortunately two boys who were out hunting, came along and discovered him in a serious condition and carried him to Castle Rock where medical aid was had. The scoundrels have not yet been captured.

AN EARNEST REMONSTRANCE.

No Street Car Line Should Be Allowed on Front Street.

PORTLAND, Or., April 16.

To the Honorable the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland:—Whereas, the Multnomah Street Railway Company has applied for a franchise for a single or double track railroad on Front street from Washington to Morrison street, the undersigned earnestly protest against the grant of a franchise to any street railway company for the use of said street, as being wholly unnecessary to the public convenience; destructive to the commercial interests of the city, and calculated to obstruct the travel and business now confined to those limits.

A LIEN ON THE VESSEL.

An Important Decision Rendered by Judge Deady Yesterday.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF OREGON.

The S. S. Oregon—John Simpson Iheliant—The Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern Ry. Co., claimant.

Exceptions to the libel of James Laidlaw, administrator of Charles Austin and Matthew Reed deceased, intervening for his interest in said vessel, as such administrator.

DEADY, J.

Austin and Reed, seamen on the Clan Mackenzie, were killed in a collision that occurred between that vessel and the steamship Oregon, on the Columbia river, on the night of December 26, 1889.

The master of the Mackenzie, John Simpson, has brought suit in this court against the steamship to recover damages for the injury sustained by the collision, alleging that it was caused by the negligence of the persons in charge of the latter, in which suit the administrator has intervened. Helpful.

That under the Oregon Statute (Comp. 1887, § 371), giving a right of action to the administrator for the death of a person, caused by the wrongful act or omission of another, in cases where the deceased, had he lived, might have maintained an action for an injury caused by the same act or omission, an administrator might maintain a suit in admiralty to recover damages for the death of his intestate. The Harrisburg, 119 U. S., 199; The Alaska, 130 U. S., 201.

That a person injured by a marine tort—a tort committed on a navigable river of the United States—has a lien upon the offending vessel for the damages, and may proceed to recover such injury. The Rock Island bridge, 6 Wall., 215; the Avon, 1 Brown, 170.

That by the law of the state the administrator having the same right to maintain an action for the death of his intestate as the latter would have had for an injury caused by the same act or omission, if he had lived, it follows, in my judgment, that he has, as an incident of such right, a lien upon the offending vessel for the amount of the damages he is entitled to in such action.

That the administrator has such lien also by virtue of the Oregon statute (Comp., 1887, § 3690), which gives a lien on "Every boat or vessel used in navigating the waters of this state" * * * for damages or injuries to persons or property by such boat or vessel; for the law being a maritime one, the state may give a lien in favor of the injured party which accords within its jurisdiction, That the administrator in this case is the party injured in any suit brought against the offending vessel for an injury to person or property caused by the wrongful act or omission that resulted in the death of his intestate, and may join in his libel claims for the death of both Austin and Reed.

That under the admiralty rule 34, the administrator may file his libel in the clerk's office and then apply to the court for an order requiring the claimant to answer the same, and such claimant may thereupon take such exceptions or make such defense thereto as by the course of admiralty proceedings he is entitled to.

Mr. C. E. S. Wood for the libellant.
Mr. Zera Snow for the claimant.

WORLDS UNDER THE SEA.

How Cities and Continents Came to Be Under the Pacific Ocean.

GRANT'S PASS, Or., April 20.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—I read a long article in your issue of the 16th on a lost continent which is buried at the bottom of the Pacific ocean. It is common knowledge that there are many cities now buried beneath the salt waters. This idea of buried cities is not one of theory, but of fact. The question that has confounded the scientists is how came it so? I have been a careful student of the theories by which our scientific men have accounted for these buried cities, but I see no rational solution of the question in any of the theories advanced, believing your many thousands of readers will be interested in some rational solution of the question I venture a theory that accounts for not only lost cities but lost continents as well.

The general reader has the conviction that there were at one time just as many large cities where the great oceans now stand. We are safe in the belief that the beds of the oceans were once the home of millions of beings with as much real use as we can claim for the present enlightened race.

There is every reason to believe that there is a law which reaches its culminat on at certain intervals by which continents go down and ocean beds come up for the use of the animal and the so-called human kingdom. So much for fact and the facts by which to establish it is not really done because the present methods of instruction are so very different from that which will be used in this article that it will be difficult for you to be understood by the reader. However, there is but one thing to do and that is to be as clear as possible in stating my theory, which I believe will be found to be a law. The key to my theory for the destruction of cities and continents is "the great principle of breathing." It is a common and quite generally accepted, theory that the animate of all structures is the minute cell. The atomic theory of the modern scientist involves the fact that atoms are cells, and it is also a common fact that all cells must and do expand and contract. This is called breathing. It is rational to conclude that wherever there are cells there is breathing. In low vegetable and animal kingdom there is breathing without question. If the law of analogy is of any value in one instance, why not apply it in other instances? To make said application clear to all and logical. Therefore, if the atomic and cell resemble kingdoms breathe because of cellular construction it is not far fetched to assume that the cells, oceans and mineral domains breathe because of similar construction. I do not assume that they breathe at the same intervals the so called living domains do but that each domain breathes in accordance with its degree of development. This would produce almost an endless variety of degrees of breathings. By this simple law the air breathes which is one prime factor of all growths. The ocean breathes at certain intervals, which is one factor operating to produce the tides and ocean currents. Of course I do not say that breathings is the only force operating to produce the tides. The ocean breathes about twice in every twenty-four hours. The great earth breathes also. It is very firm and solid hence it must breathe less frequently. In the theory to which I am directing the reader's attention I hold that the earth breathes once in 24,000 years. The cause of this breathing in all domains is the heaping up of force which is the result of the great chemic and alchemic action going on in the cells out of which all things are constructed. When the earth breathes there is a great upheaval and the earth beneath the ocean is thrown up above the waters, while the land above the waters is placed beneath the waters.

Thus it is that continents and cities are cast beneath the great oceans for recuperation. This is called the birth and death of continents. Hence the conclusion is at hand that there are buried at the bottom of the ocean not only a city, but thousands of them. The outcome of this upheaval is called a flood. Prophetically speaking, there will be another breathing in 6000 years. This continent-making has been one of the processes and purposes of the ages. At the end of 6000 years from now the lands above the oceans will go down and the great beds of all the oceans will be thrown up for the then dwelling place of the living kingdoms at that time. At some future time in the existence of the race they will discover the ruins of some of the cities of earth now. So on and on through the cycles that come and go will this great law of breathing be the method by which not only the organic, but the inorganic world will have its perpetuity and recuperation. This theory, though new to your readers, will appeal to their rational sense as one based on a common principle—that of breathing. R. O. SZEAD.

NO RENUNCIATION OF SPIRITISM.

Claiming That Neither Robert Dale Owen or General Milroy Abandoned Spiritualism.

PORTLAND, April 21.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—Referring to your criticisms on the clergyman who preached the funeral sermon over General Milroy (see Sunday OREGONIAN April 20), you state that "Robert Dale Owen was never a 'spiritist' until the last feeble years of his long life," and again you say, "it was Robert Dale Owen the 'deist' that General Milroy met in his early manhood." Now while I do not say that Dr. Owen was a deist in his early manhood, or that he continued a deist to his latest breath, and while I fully agree with you that "Owen was a man of fine intellect, rare culture and admirable literary talent," I would ask you if you are not mistaken about his not being a spiritualist until after he became a feeble old man? If I read the account of his life correctly he was a spiritualist from his early manhood even before the Rochester rappings, and did he not befriend and publish his "Dead Speak on the Boundary of Another World" long before the Katie King exposure? and were not these works written in the prime of his manhood and about the time he should have made his acquaintance with General Milroy? And was it not General Milroy that was the feeble old man when he remitted himself with the "remodeled" Presbyterian church? But that ever General Milroy or Robert Dale Owen renounced spiritualism remains to be proven.

And in this closing remarks the clergyman referred to at the commencement of this article indorses spiritualism, although he knows it not, for he said while standing by the casket that held the mortal remains of General Milroy: "We are not weeping for him as dead. We expect to meet him before long. Our friend has only finished writing the first chapter of his age; the book will never really be finished; he has gone up to a higher plane, entered a larger field of action, where I, doubtless, he will be engaged forever, writing other and better chapters." These words are in keeping with modern spiritualism (spiritism) and we believe applicable to both General Milroy and Robert Dale Owen.

CITIZENS OF COLOR.

They Are for Reform Always, but Never for Pennoyer.

PORTLAND, April 22.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—The following statement has been printed in this city:

Our colored citizens are to meet and form a republican reform league, which means most likely that they are going to support the democratic ticket. Otherwise how reform at this late day in the proceedings and after the ballots have been opened and yielded forth. Too late "gemmen" to reform now except to "rah" for Pennoyer and genuine democracy.

The colored citizens instead of meeting at the Nonpareil hall for the purpose of declaring for "Pennoyer and reform," as an obscure advertising Pennoyer sheet of last evening stated, intend to call attention to and denounce certain language used by Mr. Pennoyer in a public speech a few years ago, of which we have abundant proof, which was as follows to-wit: When ever the time comes that a nigger has the right to cast his vote, or exercise the rights of a white American citizen, I intend to shake the dust of the great state of Oregon from my feet."

No, No, gentlemen, the colored citizens are for Hermann, Thompson and the entire republican ticket, first last and all the time, and you need not forget it.

SICKELL SEEKS NO OFFICE.

JACKSONVILLE, Or., April 21.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—Please allow me to correct a statement you make in speaking of the candidates for the various nominations in the gift of the ensuing democratic convention.

You say that "Charles Nickell, of Jacksonville, who wanted the nomination of secretary of state in 1886, and was let down with the nomination for state printer, is in the field." The information you this vouchsafe is entirely erroneous, as I am not seeking, nor would I accept, any nomination at the disposal of the convention which meets next Wednesday, although I am a delegate to the same. Your remark that I "was let down will the nomination for state printer" is equally untrue. While I would have been pleased to have spared Hon. G. W. McBride the trouble of being re-elected secretary of state, it is a well-known fact that I would have declined the nomination for state printer, had it not been for the fact that Gov. L. R. Bell, who was nominated for superintendent of public schools, declined first. It was bestowed upon me without my consent and against my known wishes. I had no use for the state printer's office, and made very little effort to secure it. Yours truly, CHAS. NICKELL.

CAR STORE

This valuable tract of land, consisting of several hundred acres, and on the proposed motor line now being constructed from East Portland southward, is now offered for sale in tracts Five acres and upwards.

The location is on the Willamette River, a short distance south of Milwaukie. Commands a fine view of the river, the mountains, and the most charming section of the country lying between the City of Portland and the Willamette Falls. Lies high, with a gentle slope to the river. Plenty of the purest of water easily obtained on any portion.

Tracts suitable for gardening, fruit raising, and especially for suburban homes.

The fine river frontage of over one mile affords many splendid manufacturing sites, to which special attention is directed.

This land is now for the first time placed upon the market, at a low price and on easy terms. Buy before the advent of the Electric Motor, which will surely double the value of this land in a few months. THE LIFE OF A BUSY CITY.

An Important Meeting of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Many Differences—Ainsworth Dock—Train Delayed—Placed in Readiness—A New Thief—Other Notes.

TEACHERS' MEETING.—Preparations are being made to hold a public meeting of teachers in the city school buildings the evening of Friday, April 25, and on Saturday, April 26. The evening session will consist of addresses by the Hon. E. D. McBroy, State superintendent of public instruction, and a paper by Mrs. Martin, vice principal of the Fall De school, on the subject of "The Fall De school, and others outside the corps of teachers of this city are expected to be present and take part in the discussions. It is hoped the meeting will be largely attended by those interested in the subjects presented, and that it may be of considerable value to all engaged in teaching.

IN NORTH FRONT STREET.—The work of paving North Front street is progressing. The greater portion of the street from near the Ainsworth dock works to the long bridge below Kelley's mill is being planed and put in perfect shape for macadamizing yet. The piling for the sidewalk has been cut off to the proper height and the planks are being put on, and as soon as the street can be had the street will be planked over to the line of Sherlock's addition. The line of the upper part of the street is not yet established yet. It is to be graveled, and Ham, Wilson & Co., who have the contract to furnish gravel, are having a scoop dredge made and expect to get to dredge up the gravel from the bottom of the river above town. There are some deposits of fine clean washed gravel in the vicinity of the flood, and with a dredge it is thought they can be got at reasonable cost for street improvements.

BIG WITH CARP AND CATFISH.—An old fisherman, who recently paid a visit to his old fishing grounds on Sauvie's island, says the sloughs and lakes along the west side of the island are literally alive with carp and catfish, which can also be seen carried in there during the late high water. The boys were having great sport landing the latter, and dropping carp in shallow water, where they would soon be swarming with carp and catfish, and the demand for either of these fish is rather slim, they are likely to increase in value at a rapid rate, and what the result will be to the supplying trade, and what the Webfoot of the future may have to come down to catch, is a question. It may be that the Webfoot of the future may have to come down to catch carp, suckers and such like trash, as people in the Western states have, and when salmon and shad will be as scarce in the Columbia as in the Willamette.

"FIRST ISLAND," with its many miles of beautifully cultivated farms, beautiful scenery, fine soil, and many superior advantages, is attracting much attention from capitalists and land seekers, who are on the inside of railroad matters. It is surmised by many that the Northern Pacific intends building across Deception pass, as they have large holdings there, and, if so, would tap a long area of rich agricultural land. There are several thriving towns on the island now, and others springing into life—one of the handsomest being Whidby City, located on Penn's cove, with fine water facilities, and surrounded by picturesque scenery. Mrs. M. Eldon, who has just returned from Port Townsend reports this, of all the new towns born in Puget Sound during the year, the favorite on the island.

AFRAID OF HER HUSBAND.—Mrs. Gertie Ray, a rather comely-looking woman of perhaps 20 summers, appeared in Judge Tanner's private office at the city jail yesterday afternoon to swear out a warrant for the arrest of her worse half, Caleb Ray, who, she claims, has threatened on several occasions to exterminate her. As she is not only just yet to shuffle off this mortal coil to satisfy a whim of her husband, she hopes to foil his murderous plans and secure for herself a cessation of the loose of life by having him put behind the prison bars. Ray, who is a house painter by trade, is said to be of a very quiet disposition, and furthermore addicted to the use of opium and morphine. The Rays live on the 200 Pine street, and an officer was sent out early yesterday afternoon to bring in the dangerous pair.

THE PORTLAND CROWDED.—The number of guests entertained at The Portland is much larger this summer had anticipated at this season, as summer travel has scarcely commenced yet. Notwithstanding that some declared that the big hotel would never be filled, many have already come to the conclusion that it is not big enough, as there but few rooms left vacant a night or two, and there is no question but that it will be crowded when the tide of summer travel sets in. The leasing of the upper stories of the Murphy block as an annex to the hotel, to be connected with it by a bridge across the street, has already been talked of. Manager Leland is smiling and happy and says everything is going on swimmingly and business in all that could be expected or desired.

PUTTING THE PRECINCT.—It was yesterday reported on the streets that Dan Sprague intended to run for constable in South Portland precinct against Sam Simmons, who defeated him two years ago, but as he lives out of the precinct, it seems that his quest is not entirely clear. He would secure the line some time ago. Simmons, the present constable, has filled the office so satisfactorily that his many friends have prevailed upon him to run on an independent ticket. At the last election he defeated Sprague, one of the strongest opposition candidates, by several hundred majority, and his friends insist that he has not lost any of his popularity, but, on the contrary, is stronger to-day than he was then. At Thomas the regular nominee of the republican county convention.

RETURNED TO THE FIRE BOYS.—As George B. Smith and wife were returning from the funeral of the late William Sherman yesterday afternoon, the horses took fright from an electric car on Fourteenth and D streets, and for a few moments there was an unenviable predicament. One of the horses jumped over the other and the harness were torn up generally, but before the damage was done Mrs. Markle was helped to the ground. Several of the firemen from the engine house came to the rescue, and by their timely assistance perhaps far more disastrous smashup was prevented. The horses were held by the bridle, and after the motor passed they quieted down. No one was hurt, and beyond the broken harness no damage was done.

A RECORD TIMER.—The meeting of the James G. Blaine club Thursday evening promises to arouse great enthusiasm, and will help to push the republican party on to victory in the coming election. Some of the best speakers in the city have been engaged for the occasion, and there will be no lagging and hat throwing between acts. Creative state and county ticket, which is considered one of the strongest ever put up by the party in this state will be ratified with three cheers and a tiger. The meeting will be held in Pythian hall, commencing at 7.30 o'clock sharp. Members will be open some time before, and the club is invited to be present. No reserved seats, everything free and first come, first pick.

FOR A CHEERFUL LETTER.—Deputy U. S. Marshal Baker yesterday brought down from the north fork of John Day river, R. W. Bearden, charged with sending an obscene letter through the mail. Mr. S. S. White, who had threshed wheat again for Bearden and taken his note for the amount due therefor, wrote to him asking for the money and the interest. It is likely that he had written more than once on this subject, but his last letter seems to have exasperated Bearden, who wrote a letter in reply which was in the Chesterfieldian style. Mr. White, who is postmaster at Gaddis, laid the letter before the authorities and the result was the arrest of Bearden.

THE TOWN FILLED WITH BEGGARS.—There has been considerable complaint made regarding the number of beggars allowed to follow their calling on the streets of Portland. This is particularly noticeable to strangers, who often ask why this is permitted. Monday evening one gentleman counted five beggars within a radius of less than a block. One was on the corner of Third and Washington, another on First and Washington, a third in front of Gunst's cigar store, the fourth on First and Alder, and the Fifth on First and Morrison. There is an ordinance in the city prohibiting begging on the public streets, and if the police were awake to their duties it would be obeyed.

RAILROAD MATTERS.—It is probable that the Northern Pacific will begin work on their road from Seattle to the Sound before Mr. Hunt will get on his road. Just what route the Hunt road will take no one knows, but it is understood that the Union Pacific will build out from the terminal of Albina, getting up on the plateau by the most favorable route. The completion of the road to Vancouver will take some time, but it is said the whole road will be completed by the fall of '91. Mr. Huntington will be here in a day or two, and it will then be decided whether he will build from Silverton into East Portland or not.

MOVED TO NEW QUARTERS.—The old Board of Trade rooms having been found altogether too small to accommodate its successor, the Chamber of Commerce, the room in the south wing of New Market block, lately occupied by the Merchants' Club, has been leased and fitted up for their use. The room is half as large again as the old one, and it has been newly carpeted and a number of additional chairs provided sufficient to accommodate all who will attend the meetings. A desk and other necessary office furniture, which the secretary has been provided, and the room is a great improvement on the old chambers.

TRACK IN GOOD CONDITION.—The track at City View park is now in first rate condition, better than it has been before, and is likely to be one of the fastest tracks in the state. There are some forty head of horses training there, comprising Quimby's, Meisner's and Matt White's stables, as well as the racer Sunday. The racers are worked out at 9 A. M. and then the trotters take to the track. The morning days are Mondays, Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Ed Lafferty talks of putting up the stable of a dozen horses from Pasadena. He is said to have some fast ones.

THE JOINT BENEFIT.—The programme for the joint benefit tendered Jack Dempsey and Dave Campbell at the New Park theater will be an excellent one in every respect. There will be a host of volunteers. Both Dempsey and Campbell will appear and give exhibitions in the manly art of self-defense. Mike C Conley, the "Ithaca giant," will also appear in a friendly bout with Camp bell. The entertainment promises to be well worth patronizing. Dempsey and Campbell will leave for the East in a few days, where they will be absent several months.

SENT TO THE ASYLUM.—Yesterday morning Louis C. Sauer, a German aged 51 years, was adjudged insane by County Judge Catlin, on examination by Dr. A. J. Glisy, and was taken up to Salem to be confined in the asylum. The subject is not of the exceedingly violent type. He formerly worked at the Tillamook lighthouse, from which place he was sent to the St. Vincent hospital some time since. The sisters, however, found him too much of a patient for quiet treatment, and called the attention of the authorities to the man's condition.

BEING PLACED IN READINESS.—The offices in Worcester block to be occupied by the Union Pacific officials are now being put in readiness for their reception, and they will probably move about the 1st of May. The offices of the principal officials are being handsomely carpeted and the others will be covered with linoleum. All hands are much pleased with the prospect of getting into more commodious quarters, and in some of the offices the work of sorting and packing piles of books and papers for removal is already begun.

HE WAS VERY NERVY.—W. M. Howes, of Snell, Hickman & Woodard, Monday lost a valuable horse from his place at Sunnyside under what were to him, rather aggravating circumstances, says the Oregonian. The horse had been tied in front of the house for some time, when a stranger who was passing coolly mounted the animal and rode away before the gaze of the surprised family. Nothing has since been seen of either horse or rider, although the police who have a description of both are keeping a sharp lookout for them.

TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES.—The Builders' Association and the Carpenters' Union having requested that the Chamber of Commerce endeavor to arrange the differences between them, and put an end to the strike, a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce has been called for this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of appointing a committee to consult with the Carpenters and Builders with a view of harmonizing if possible, their differences and putting an end to the present unsatisfactory situation of affairs.

OPENING A LETTER.—Frank E. Vaughn, charged with receiving from the postoffice at Enterprise, Union county, a registered letter belonging to another person, containing $50 in gold coin, was brought here yesterday by Deputy Marshal Watras and lodged in the county jail. The letter was addressed to Frank Vaughn, and Frank E. Vaughn took it and receipted for it and took the money out of it. He refused to make restitution until arrested, when it was too late, and it was determined to proceed against him.

A VERY IMPORTANT MEETING.—The incorporators of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday and ordered a meeting of the stockholders on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the new Chamber of Commerce room, in the south wing of the New Market block, for the purpose of making a final selection of the sight for the building. As there will be a great many present who will wish to speak, it will be advisable to limit speeches to five minutes, and not to allow any one to speak more than a dozen times.

UP THEY GO!—Workmen commenced yesterday to tear down the old building at Second and Stark to make room for a handsome six-story building, to be erected there by Mr. Ladd. F. C. Farnes, who stuck to the corner of Third and Morrison till the roof was pulled down over him, is now getting out of Second and Stark and flying to Third and Washington, where there is no roof to pull down as yet, and from all appearances there is not likely to be for a while

MAKE NO MISTAKE.—People who have sidewalks or crosswalks which need repairing or renewing will do well to attend to the matter at once, and especially those who have been notified to make necessary repairs, will do well to make them promptly, and thus save themselves the trouble of being arrested and appearing in the police court. The law is different from what it used to be and the street commissioner is enforcing it without fear or favor.

STEAMER ALLIANCE.—The steamer Alliance arrived here at midnight Monday, having made a trip to Gray's harbor in time that ought to satisfy anybody. She left Portland at 6 o'clock Friday evening and arrived at Gray's harbor at 2 P. M. Saturday, and happening to hit the tides right, she completed discharging her cargo and got back to Portland Monday night at 12. What is the matter with the Alliance? There does not appear to be any flies on her.

THE HARDMAN PIANO IS KING, and challenges the world to produce its equal in upright pianos. It is the only piano with the new patent harp stop. It saves the instrument from wear, and subdues the tone in a delightful manner, rendering practice a positive delight, preventing the slightest annoyance. These beautiful instruments are now on exhibition at the palace warerooms of W. T. Shanahan, Ainsworth bank building, 63 Third street.

CENTRALIA BOOMING.—Mr. J. A. Hawley, of Centralia, Wash., is registered at the Merchant's. Mr. Hawley is proprietor of the Arlington hotel at that place. He says that everything is booming in the country. The town will, no doubt, be touched by two railroads, the Gray's Harbor and the Union Pacific. Since Mr. Hawley went there a year ago the town has grown in size from a population of 700 to 2500.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At a meeting of the Multnomah Rod and Gun Club held at the Hotel Portland last night, W. T. Muir was elected president, vice J. W. Whalley, resigned, and Buel Lamberson was elected secretary and treasurer. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the coming tournament of the Sportsmen's Association of the Northwest to be held in June.

TO INSPECT THREE STEAMERS.—The United States local inspectors left last night for Astoria on the steamer R. R. Thompson. They go down to inspect the steamers Polar Bear, Sophia and the Flavel. The latter steamer was ready for inspection the last time the inspectors were at Astoria, but was damaged the night of the great storm by being thrown on top of a dock.

TAUGHT A LESSON.—E. Kroner, an East Portland plumber, for improperly filling a trench he had dug on Tenth street, between Washington and Stark, so as to leave a high mound in the street, was fined $20 in the police court. It is high time such matters were being looked after, as there are too many hills and hollows in the streets from this kind of work.

THE AINSWORTH DOCK.—The piling necessary for the repair of Ainsworth dock, having arrived, the work was commenced yesterday. The dock when rebuilt will be more substantial than it was before the flood, as many more piles will be driven and special pains taken to prevent a recurrence of the accident. The repairs will probably occupy two months.

NOT THE RIGHT MAN.—The impression has gained ground that the license of Mr. Lewis, now chief engineer of the steamer State of Washington, was revoked by the Seattle, Washington, inspectors, for negligence and contempt. The engineer of that steamer who lost his license for the offense mentioned was H. F. Smith, and not Mr. Lewis, as reported.

MORE VESSELS.—A gentleman from down the river stated yesterday that two steam schooners and a tug have recently been contracted for, and are now under course of construction, in San Francisco, for the Truckee Lumber Company, of Hobsonville, Tillamook.

TRAIN DELAYED.—The Union Pacific train due here at 7 P. M. Monday evening, did not arrive till 10 o'clock yesterday morning, having been delayed by the burning of a bridge near Mosier. The bridge has been thoroughly repaired and will cause no further delay.

LARGE TRANSACTION in real estate, H. W. Wesco and William Hahn are consummating a sale of twenty-five acres adjoining Fulton Park known as McCowatt's place, consideration $40 000. This is a fine tract of land and will be placed on the market at once.

DR. HOUGHTON'S LECTURE.—The regular lecture in the course on "The Historical Writers of America," by Dr Ross C. Houghton, which was announced for Friday evening of this week, is postponed to next week Friday night, May 2, at Grace church.

THE LADIES OF LINCOLN W R. corps give another of their pleasant sociables Tuesday, April 24, at G. A. R. hall, corner First and Taylor street. Dancing beginning 8 P. M. Good music in attendance.

FINE PICNIC GROUNDS.

A few minutes' ride from the Morrison street bridge, east through the heart of East Portland, brings the tourist and pleasure seeker to one of the loveliest spots on the East Side. It lies 150 feet above the river, is covered with timber and has abundance of fruit trees for shade. A abundance of fine cold water can be had at these grounds. Picnic parties are invited to take an outing here. This superb tract is appropriately named Telendale. It is completely sidewalked, is in the direction of East Portland's most rapid growth. A few choice 50x100 feet lots for sale for $50 to $80 each in easy terms. Call at Clayton & Oliver's, 5 Washington street, for particulars.

NORTHERN PACIFIC BRANCH.

The Northern Pacific owns about 20,000 acres on Whidby island in the vicinity of San de Fuca. What would be more reasonable than to suppose that they would make that the terminus of the branch line, crossing the river at Mt Vernon, passing through La Conner, and thus tapping the agricultural lands of Skagit county. The News honestly believes that this road will undoubtedly cross the river at this point, and thus secure the cream of the trade of this grand country. Mt. Vernon is all right, and will continue in the front rank of the cities of Skagit county.—Skagit News.

INTO FAIRHAVEN BY JULY 1

NEITHER TRAITOR NOR REBEL

The last written message of Jeff Davis to the public is printed in the North American Review for February 1st, in shape of an argument whose conclusion is that the revolt of 1861 was not an act of treason or rebellion because allegiance was primarily due to the state of which the individual was a citizen; that the southern states committed no act of treason or rebellion when they "resumed the grants made by them as parties to the federal compact and following the precedent of 1776 for a new Union." From this posthumous utterance of Davis we quote as follows:

"At present, here due to the foreign policy at several of the American states is the power to which the individual belongs. The people who constitute the government alone have the power to declare for as far as federal relations are concerned, but still the federal constitution, the people who never delegated their sovereignty, and therefore retain the power to revoke all agencies created by them."

The singular thing is, not that Jeff Davis with dying hand should have penned this defense of secession and state supremacy, but that certain Northern men in defiance or contempt of history accept this defense as sound. James Redpath, an old time radical abolitionist the biographer and eulogist of John Brown was the literary assistant of Mr Davis in the preparation of his autobiography and he to day eulogizes Davis as neither traitor nor rebel" despite the fact that Davis approved of the verdict in Brown's case. Guilty of treason, conspiracy and advising with slaves and others to rebel and murder in the first degree." Mr Redpath denies that our fathers intentionally created a nation, and agrees with Davis that the South had a clear right to secede and that the causes justified the exercise of that power.

Against this view can be quoted the language of Washington who was always hostile to every idea of state sovereignty and secession. In his last appeal to the American people he says: "It is of infinite moment that you should cherish a cordial, habitual, immovable attachment to your National Union, discountenancing what ever may suggest a suspicion that it can in any event be abandoned and indignantly frowning upon every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest."

Madison wrote Alexander Hamilton that New York could not ratify the constitution conditionally, reserving the right to withdraw, for, said he "the constitution requires an adoption in toto and forever." Madison denounced the idea of reserving the right to withdraw as worse than rejection, because it militated against "the perpetuity of the Union." The articles of confederation in 1778 describe a "perpetual union." The language is "We plight the faith of our constituents that the Union shall be perpetual," and the constitution of 1787 was adopted on the basis of this compact. Edmund Randolph denouncing the absurdity of the state sovereignty doctrine to the Virginia convention, said: "The national government ought to be fully vested with power to preserve the Union, protect the interests of the United States and defend them from external invasions and internal insurrection."

Washington, Madison and Randolph all great Virginians, who helped frame the constitution, declared that we were a nation, that the people and the states alike adopted the constitution in toto and forever, and that they surrendered their own sovereignty to the nation to that extent, giving it a self perpetuating existence and power.

This testimony leaves nothing of Davis's argument that "the right and power of the states to withdraw from the Union had been conceded by successive generations." Under the construction of the founders of the nation and the framers of the constitution secession was treason and nothing but treason. The causes which are pleaded by Davis as justification for secession are not worthy of consideration, for Alexander H. Stephens in the Georgia convention of January 1861, examined them all and pronounced them without foundation, challenging anyone to name one act of legislation for sectional advantage one act of wrong by the government to which the South had a right to complain. The Raleigh (N. C.) Banner at this time said: "All the big heart of the people is still in the Union! Less than an hundred thousand politicians are endeavoring to destroy our liberties and usurp the rights of more than thirty millions of people. If the people do not prevent this they deserve the horrors of the civil war which will ensue. They deserve the despotism under which they will be brought, and the hard fate which will be their lot."

The Southern rebellion was not instigated, organized and forced into life by the gallant soldiers who led the Confederate troops to useless grange, it was organized by ten United States senators from seven states, who met in secret conclave at Washington, on Saturday evening, January 5 1861. The plan adopted was as follows:

Urge by mail and telegraph the several cotton state conventions now and soon to be in session to refer no acts or ratification to their constituents, as contemplated in their appointment but pass, as near as possible one and the same acts of secession and another calling a joint convention of all the states seceding ostensibly to devise measures suited to their common welfare, but really to assume the immediate functions of the provisional government. In defense of this scheme urge the several governors (or, if necessary irresponsible men) to take possession of the United States forts and arsenals, mints and custom houses in the name of their respective states till the provisional government may safely assume them to itself and even the post and telegraph offices allowing the United States to carry all the express over southern mails to the legislatures of Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia into unanticipated acts or quasi resolutions of secession, hold your seats in the United States senate until March 15.

This last injunction was to keep Buchanan's hands tied, prevent the passage of force, loan and volunteer bills or other legislation that would strengthen the hands of the incoming administration. Redpath says that "The South did not fight for slavery but for state rights." Forty two southern politicians met at Montgomery, February 4 1861, assuming to represent the seven states, and adopted a constitution which said: "No law denying or impairing the right of property in slaves shall ever be passed. In all territory actual or acquired, the institution of negro slavery as it now exists in the Confederate states shall be protected by congress and the territorial government." Vice President Stephens described slavery as the immediate cause of the late rupture, and as the chief corner stone of the new republic. Lord Palmerston said "England would not recognize the Southern Confederacy because they were fighting to found a slave empire." Lincoln said: "All knew that the slave interest was somehow the cause of the war. To strengthen perpetuate and extend that interest the insurgents would rend the Union by war." Of course state rights, under Davis's construction, would have been fatal to the Confederacy had any state of consequence attempted to assert it during the civil war. This last utterance of Davis's ought to rob him of all right to the reputation of intellectual or moral greatness and the declaration of John Brown's biographer that Davis was "neither traitor or rebel," either convicts him of profound ignorance of the right to rend the constitution and the Union or stamps him as a Bohemian, who became apologist apostate because he earned his fee by whitewashing the "Lost Cause" at Beauvoir.

AN ANTI MILLS BILL

The ways and means committee is a nest of trouble with its tariff bill. It seems to suit nobody. Scores of individuals interests assail it because it does not protect them enough and the whole country grumbles because it still taxes the consumer too much. Local groups of representatives are in it declared rebellion, and the party press is not warm. It seems doubtful whether the bill can be passed though in the house and it seems certain that it will not satisfy the country. This is a deplorable state of things—the more so as it is certain that it is the result of an attempt upon the part of the ways and means committee to do its work theoretically and consequently. The committee started to revise the tariff in the interest of the whole country and in connection with the principles of absolutely free and equitable taxation. When confronted by the various interests that would not have their tariffs touched it was found impossible to do this. Then the committee started to frame a bill that would please the various interests. This is declared by the republican press, however the country at large might have regarded it. Mr Mills's plan was very simple. He put on the free list all the products of the republican states of the West, and shifted down the duties on the products of the industries of Ohio and Pennsylvania. He was careful to maintain the existing high duties on the products of the South and upon the articles manufactured in the democratic states of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. This was on the familiar principle of the professional revenue reformer and mugwump, that free trade is a great blessing—for the other fellow. The Mills bill put the products of republican states on the free list and left a high tariff on the fruit of democratic industries. It stripped the West and protected New York and the South. It condemned the Western miner and wool grower to the free list and showered protection upon the Southern cane and rice planters, the New York sugar trust, the manufactures of the democratic districts of New Jersey and Connecticut. The party organs were all satisfied with the bill and it passed the house with little difficulty.

Here was a model for the ways and means committee of the republican house. It would have been a simple matter for them to frame an anti Mills bill, to put on the free list the sugar and rice and wood screws and buttons the crockery and hats of the South, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and to transfer protection to the wool and lead and iron and other mineral and agricultural products of the West. This would have been simple and easy and as just as the Mills bill. If protection is a good thing to be enjoyed by the majority, and free trade a blessing to be thankfully accepted by the minority, the proposition ought to be as sound when one party is in power as the other. Such a bill would have accomplished the immediate object of reducing the surplus. The repeal of the sugar tax alone would have been enough for that. It would have been a better bill on abstract principles than the Mills bill and would have had the element of poetic justice in it. It would have united the party, satisfied the republican press and passed the house of representatives with less trouble than the McKinley bill, which is going to have a hard time of it. To parody a famous phrase the McKinley bill is a monument of patient sturdy and conscientious error, but it is not politics. The Mills bill was politics. Turned end for end and it would have made splendid republican legislation.

THE OCCUPATION OF AFRICA

It is clear that there was more business than sentiment in Stanley's expedition to Central Africa for the rescue of Emin Pasha, about whose perilous situation so many pathetic stories were told. Its primary object was not to relieve Emin, who was in no danger, but rather to discover and embarrass his plans for the German colonization of Africa from the eastern side. That Emin had such plans, which he did not care to confess was apparent from his reluctance to return with Stanley and his lately declared purpose to reenter Africa with a German commission and in the German interest. When he was in equatorial Africa before, Emin was in nominal service of the khedive of Egypt but it was certain that he was working in the real interest of German colonization, and that it was to hamper and if possible, defeat his efforts in this direction, that Stanley was sent out, rather than to rescue him from any impending peril. Stanley went to equatorial Africa to serve English and oppose German colonizing plans. If he did not bring Emin out actually against his will it is certain that he did him no service by rescuing him. He simply exposed the real purpose of the German explorer and compelled him on his last return to Africa to go in his proper capacity as a German colonizer, rather than as a servant of the khedive. On the other hand, Stanley himself has been obliged to lay aside the attractive mask of the romantic adventurer and scientific explorer. He is about to return to Africa, either as the agent of England directly or under a commission from the Congo Free State, which is an English colonizing organization, with the half English king of the Belgians at its head. The truth is Central Africa is now the theater of a vast contest for colonial supremacy like that which ended in the partition of India between England and France 100 years ago. England and Germany are the main parties to it and the German is a tougher competitor than the Gaul. The expeditions of Gordon, of Emin, of Lieutenant Wissman and of Stanley are mere episodes in this vast scheme of commercial and political conquest which has a continent for its object. The era of scientific and adventurous exploration in Africa has ended and that of practical occupation has begun.

Iowa farmers think they know what is the cause of "agricultural depression." They have an abundance of oats and corn but it takes two bushels of either product to get one to market. They have cattle, but the slaughtering companies of Chicago and Kansas City have raised the price of beef to the consumer while putting it down to the producer. Farmers do not find it profitable therefore, to feed their grain to cattle as they must be sold in Chicago or Kansas City and the railroads absorb the owner's profit in placing live stock in market and then after it is slaughtered the meat is sent back and the railroads get another freight tribute. For these and kindred reasons the Farmers' Alliance of that state is waging an offensive warfare against corporations and trusts and is determined to fight it out all this time "at the present stand." There is certainly little to encourage farmers to raise ten bushels of corn for market and twenty to feed it, therefore the best course for them to pursue is to cease producing those products which they have to ship to distant markets and which they hardly realize enough to pay for the freight. There are too many producers of corn in the world as it is. Let the farmers of Iowa raise less corn and more cattle, hogs, poultry, butter, eggs, fruit, vegetables, etc., and they will find a market for them at home. Let them diversify their crops and not depend upon one staple,

THE EAST SIDE

Funeral of Charles E. Sitton Yesterday Afternoon.

PLAIN, SIMPLE CEREMONIES

A Man Assaulted, Brutally Beaten and Robbed By Three Toughs.

GOOD WORDS FOR GOV THOMPSON

Portland's Emerging Poem—The Strike Still Continues, But Is Quiet and Orderly—A Collision Last Night.

The funeral of the late Charles E Sitton took place from the family residence corner of Vancouver and Lowndale streets at half past 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted in accordance with the wishes of the deceased and differed but little from the usual funeral services, except that the fraternal orders of which he was a member did not participate. The remains were interred in Lone Fir cemetery.

The features of the deceased were very natural and presented that calm and contented impress which death alone leaves on the frail tenement of clay after the spirit has taken its flight.

A large number of friends and relatives took a last look at the form of the departed and then the funeral procession started for Riverview cemetery, where the burial took place. There were about forty carriages and hacks in line.

The pall bearers were George P Frank, George E Withington, Ellis G Hughes, E L Pennoyer, C A Dolph, William M Ladd, B G Whitehouse and H S Allen.

BRUTALLY BEATEN AND ROBBED

Three Murderous Tramps Overcome and Robbed Whisky Down a Defenseless Man's Throat.

A gentleman from Castle Rock, on the line of the Northern Pacific, arrived in the city yesterday and related the particulars of the brutal robbery of an Eastern man at the hands of three toughs, Saturday last.

A man whose name was subsequently learned to be John Taft, and who recently arrived from the East, while walking on the railroad track about two miles from Castle Rock, in search of work was met by three tramps. Taft was invited by the tough looking trio to take a drink, but not liking their appearance he refused. His refusal caused the toughs to become incensed and Taft was immediately knocked down. When he became exhausted by resisting the assault, two of the brutal trio held his mouth open and pinched his nose while the third poured whiskey down his throat until the unfortunate victim became insensible.

After robbing the man of $35 which he had in his pockets, and taking from him his watch, rings etc, they tied his hands behind him and dragged his apparently lifeless form some distance, leaving him on the railroad track.

How long he lay on the track Taft has no idea. Two boys, walking along the railroad, discovered him and thought him dead. A doctor was notified Taft was revived and for the time being the town was wild with excitement. Had any of the would be murderers been captured summary justice would have undoubtedly been meted out to them.

Taft gave a minute description of his assailants and it was certain that the robbers had been seen at the next station above Castle Rock the same evening of their attack. They were tracked up the river for a considerable distance, when they were again lost. Later a brakeman reported that three toughs answering their description were seen on the top of a box car stealing a ride to Tacoma.

GOOD WORDS FOR D P THOMPSON

Compliments Paid the Republican Candidate for Governor by the State Press.

The Salem Journal of April 18, under the head of "A Winning Candidate" says:

Hon D P Thompson of Portland, the republican candidate for governor is a winning horse. Here and there in the Oregon gubernatorial race this year. He is backed by the leading men of the party and he is the horse who will surely win. Every one of every of republicanism. He is one of those veteran Oregonians who have helped to create this state and the pride of the veterans who subdued the wilderness will go far to elect him. He represents the solid element that really laid the first foundation for civilizing the territory and converting it as far as possible into a happy and prosperous state. The Willamette valley which has always been the home of Mr Thompson, will roll up a tremendous majority for one of its old boys.

Mr Thompson is not a speech maker, but he will canvass the state personally and see and talk with the people. He has bunked and slept and batched with half the pioneer settlers of the state and the rest of these old memories will stir up an enthusiasm that the democrats cannot overcome. Of course the usual grist of campaign material will be started up against him as it has been against every man who ever ran on the republican ticket from J C Fremont down to county coroner in 1890.

Hon D P Thompson is a self made man and there is no evidence that he will not be his own master after he is elected. He will fill the office with dignity becoming to it. He will not live in the capital city and let affairs at his post of duty at home go to rack and ruin. He will not be away about two days out of the week and then only by a plucky lad named Herbert Ward. He picked up a piece of wood and struck one of the excited animals across the nose. It was, the hack was upset and was badly damaged but the horses escaped serious injury. No one was injured except the driver, and the street car escaped with slight damage. The hack belonged to the Clayson stables, corner of Front and Salmon streets.

RIDERS, UNBECOMING CHICAGO.

Similar Circular That "Guys" New York and "Gets Rack" at Mr Astor.

In a trade circular issued by J. K. Armsby of Chicago, he takes occasion to "guy" New York and Mr. Astor in regard to Chicago having secured the world's fair as follows:

"I have been surprised since it was decided that the world's fair was to be located at Chicago, at the paternes displayed by our Eastern papers that Chicago, and we feel it our duty to an [illegible] Chicago is really suffering from [illegible] has several stags lines running into it, is doing a good business, and we hope to have railroad finished by 1893. We have a pony express for the mail, and we have not had any people killed by the Indians in over six weeks. We get our weekly mail and a telegraph nearly every day. We have no gas, but we have one of the largest tallow candle factories in the United States, and although there are but few people here that can read or write, yet we need candles to find our way to our feather beds when we go to bed. We never use any soap ourselves, but we have a good factory that will supply our Eastern friends when they come out if they are willing to use soft soap out of the barrel. Pork packing is not our only industry. We know that this will be a hard statement for our Eastern friends to swallow, but we have indisputable proofs to back us up. We have a shingle factory, a church, school factory, and we have one man who actually tried to start a newspaper. That, however, was such a reckless effort to imitate the customs of an effete aristocracy that our best nosed hounced him down, and he went to Oshkosh and died. As to art, our picture galleries are small, but earnest. We have several fruit pieces by Forbes spread out on tin cans to make them show better, and some of Grump's vegetable pieces are worthy of the old masters in munchkin. Well, we lay around and bet our pile on our prairie dogs. We have a quartette of Sioux chiefs that come in from a scalping expedition every few months and give us a war dance and a concert that we all attend, wearing our best clothes. We never wade out of our boots, put a fresh coating of tallow on them, and bear's grease on our hair and look real slick. As for our girls we always take them. They wear their best unbuttoned and their best calico dress, and are just as pretty as any Eastern girl. We grow larger pumpkins and cucumbers than any Mr Astor can raise in his Fifth avenue gardens, and in view of all these facts we feel that the stars and stripes heaped upon us by the Atlantic coast papers because we, in our modest, unassuming way, dared to ask congress for the world's fair, and got it. Don't fear, boys. We are part and parcel of the United States that you are. Come out and see us, and we will buy you a glass of root beer and a bohemian bun with caraway seeds in it and we are so well that you won't miss the higher plane of civilization."

THE CONGREGATIONALISTS.

The Spring Meeting of the Willamette Association With the Church at Albina.

The body convened with the church at Albina yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The application of the church at Eugene for admission into this association was referred to a committee.

A paper was read by Rev Daniel Staver on the organization of the forces of a church with relation to its efficiency in work. Discussion followed, led by Rev C A Corwin of Salem.

Following this came a paper by Rev D M Gilbert of Oswego, on "Home Missions and Social Problems," also followed by discussion led by Rev A Rogers of Corvallis.

In the evening, after an inspiring song service, the association sermon was preached by Rev. C T Whittlesey, of Plymouth church, Portland, assisted by Rev R P Moody, of Hillsboro and Rev F E Clapp, of Portland. The First Sacrament, the text being Acts viii 4. They, therefore, that were scattered abroad went about preaching the Word." At the close of the sermon "The Work of the Christian Endeavor Society and Its Relation to the Church," was presented by Rev. F J. Culver, who has had wide experience in this branch of Christian work. Notice was also given that on next Tuesday afternoon and evening there will be a Christian Endeavor convention at Grace M E. church, Portland for the purpose, among other things, of welcoming Rev Francis E Clark, of Boston, Mass., president of the United Christian Endeavor Society of the United States and originator of this widespread movement in special Christian work among young people, 500 000 of whom are now pledged to each other to carry it on, after nine years from its first organization in one little Congregational church in the city of Portland, Me.

IMPORTANT TO MARINERS.

Captain Winant, of the Mischief, Discovers Sunken Reef of Rocks.

Captain J J Winant, master of the steamschooner Mischief, states that he discovered some time since a rock or cluster of rocks which lie submerged near the Cape Foulweather lighthouse. The approximate position of the rocks is in latitude 44 35 Cape Foulweather lighthouse bears N by W ¼ W by compass Cape Perpetua S E by S ¼ S, and Table mountain and Beaver creek E ¼ N. They are about one and one half miles off shore and from ten to twelve fathoms of water is around and between them. The sea breaks heavily on the reef in rough weather, and there is not probably over twelve feet of water over it at low water.

The captain says the rocks are not down in the charts, and they have never been mentioned in the surveys. Although the reef lies inside of the track of most vessels, passing up or down the coast, it would prove very dangerous in thick weather to vessels approaching the land. The captain nearly always passes between the rocks and the shore, when he finds it necessary to sail in that locality.

OLIN L. WARNER, THE SCULPTOR

Busts He Has Been Modeling of Prominent People Horsebonts.

Mr. Olin L Warner, the sculptor, of the Skidmore fountain, has spent part of the winter in this city at work in a studio of his own building on Johnson's hill. When here putting up the fountain he was fascinated with the mountain scenery, fishing and hunting, and returned to enjoy them as well as to execute two special commissions from Mr W S Ladd, life-sized busts of Mr and Mrs Ladd. In addition to these he was persuaded to undertake a life-size bust of Mrs Charles Ladd, a medallion group of the five children of Mr C E S Wood, and life-size medallion of General Gibbon, commanding this department. He also completed a medallion of the Nez Perce chief, for his own gratification, and produced a life size portrait of nobility and dignity, at the same time suggesting a certain hawk-like wildness.

At an earlier meeting at the Big Hole, in Montana, General Gibbon and Joseph were exchanging expressions of regard with powder and lead for two days' reminiscences of which they pleasantly indulged in during their sittings in Mr Warner's studio.

It is a matter of interest that we have had working in our midst a sculptor of high ability whose works are sought for by connoisseurs of Paris, London and New York; and it is to be regretted that the fact was not discovered sooner, for the work he has done is of great value as an educator to all who can see it, but it is all packed for shipment to New York to be translated into bronze and marble. It is, however, to be hoped that the owners of this sculpture will place it on exhibition when it returns, as it is so unlike sculpture as ordinarily understood or seen and has about it so much of life and dignity that it should be considered a duty to publicly exhibit it before it is locked up in private homes.

Mr Ladd's bust is the head and shoulders without a pedestal, in effect a square block. Mrs Ladd's is head and shoulders. She wears a dress of heavy stuff trimmed with lace, a lace ruffle around the throat, and the right shoulder draped in a Spanish lace scarf, which drops a little at the front on the round pedestal. All this dress material is treated only suggestively and subordinate to the head of course.

Mrs Charles Ladd's bust is the head and neck only, on a square pedestal. The work is classical and beautiful. The medallion of Mr Wood's children is quite large of course, as it presents five life-size heads. It is beautiful, presenting as it does childhood in five phases from the cherubic baby head to the youthful but manly head of the oldest boy, contrasting two girls with three boys, yet grouping all in a harmonious whole.

General Gibbon is represented bareheaded but in uniform, the first three buttons of the coat and the shoulderstrap showing. It is an honest aggressive and determined face—quite the Gibbon of Gettysburg and commander of the Iron Brigade. It is an matter of congratulation that Portland, even in private houses, is to possess works of art of so much merit and it is to be hoped that as is reported, Mr Warner intends to return some day to go into our mountains to study the Indian as a subject, which in sculpture, has not yet been touched nor appreciated so efforts and some critics to the contrary notwithstanding.

CARROLL THE WINNER

Billy Smith Knocked Helpless in the Fourteenth Round.

A SLASHING FIGHT ALL THROUGH

California Athletic Club Votes to Raise the Heavy Purse for John L. and Peter the Great—Battle in September.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Jimmy Carroll, of Brooklyn, and Billy Smith, of Australia, middle-weights, fought for a purse of $1500 at the California Athletic Club this evening. Reddy Gallagher and Joe Ellingsworth were Carroll's seconds, and Martin Murphy and Mike McCarthy were behind Smith. Carroll weighed 171 pounds and Smith tipped the beam ten pounds lighter. Hiram Cook was referee. Both men stripped in excellent condition. The gong sounded for the first round at 9 08.

Round 1—Carroll immediately set the pace and reached Smith's neck. He led with both left and right and landed. Both were light, however. He continued the fast work, in the midst of it receiving a rib roaster from Smith's right. Carrol continued letting go with right and left handers, Smith taking them all on both sides of the head. A hard punch on the nose started the claret. This awakened him and he again visited Carroll's ribs with a good one.

Round 2—Carroll rushed matters as before, and started in to punish Smith. There were some rapid exchanges and several clinches. Smith got to Carroll's ribs twice in succession. He led frequently now, getting in some good ones on Carroll's chest and bread basket. He became weary soon, and Carroll's turn came again for good work, and at the end of the round. Smith was pretty tired.

Round 3—Smith started in by letting go for the Brooklyn man's ribs, occasionally getting there. Both worked lively now, the honors being pretty even. There was not much damage done. There was lots of close work. Smith working on Carroll's stomach and Carroll playing for Smith's cranium. There was not much damage however, inflicted, and both men were pretty much exhausted from their exertions when the round concluded.

Round 4—As soon as the men toed the scratch affray was resumed, it being give and take most all the time. During the last fifteen seconds of the round Smith got in very often with both right and left.

Round 5—It was again Carroll's turn, and many times did he lead, landing almost at will on Smith's chest and head. Smith soon woke up and returned a number of the compliments.

Round 6—Carroll started in lively, but Smith was ready for him, and caught him napping with a right hand swing on the side of the head. It was give and take again, the honors being divided. Smith gave Carroll a hard punch in the face, and Carroll retaliated with one on the chest. The Australian sought the Brooklyn man's ribs often but the latter kept them well guarded.

Round 7—The three minutes, like their predecessors, were marked by active combat, but it was yet anybody's fight.

Round 8—Still the lively work went on. One of Carroll's straight left handers again started a stream of gore from the Australian's nose.

Round 9—Both went at it hammer and tongs and kept it up the whole of the round. There was more punishment given each in this round than in any of the former ones.

Round 10—Both were yet hard at it, somewhat in Carroll's favor.

Round 11—Smith retrieved his lost ground by giving Carroll some good hard punches on the stomach, chest and head.

Round 12—Encouraged by his work of the last round, Smith rushed matters and landed several times. Carroll pulled himself together, and shooting out his left, again drew the claret from his opponent's nose. Swinging his right, he staggered him with a blow on the side of the head and with a full left arm blow reached the Australian's bread basket most effectively. Carroll now had matters all his own way, and punished Smith as he pleased. Smith was very much gone at the finish of the round.

Round 13—Carroll went right to work to finish the business, leading without a return. He rested a few seconds, and Smith made a few leads, but they were stopped. Carroll now punched the Australian all around the ring, and when the gong sounded he was all but hors du combat.

Round 14—Smith ducked some wicked swings, and fought gamely. There was some short arm work, when Carroll with a right handed swing which landed on Smith's jaw sent no him to the ground on his face, knocked him clean out. He had to be carried to his corner.

SULLIVAN JACKSON PURSE VOTED.

At a meeting of the California Athletic Club to night a motion to the effect that a purse of $20 000 be subscribed for a contest to a finish between John L. Sullivan and Peter Jackson was carried almost unanimously. It is understood the fight will not take place before September.

Newfoundland in Open Revolt.

BOSTON, April 22.—A private dispatch received here to-day by a firm which is heavily interested in fisheries from St Johns, N. F., states that the island is virtually on the eve of revolution. The coast population is intensely excited over the concession of the imperial government to French fishermen. The native fishermen are all arming, and threaten to accompany the monster petition they are getting up for presentation to parliament. The liberal party, supporting popular opinion, has sent a secret deputation to ascertain sub rosa, if possible, upon what terms New Foundland will be admitted to the American Union if she accomplishes final separation from England. The press is shouting loudly for annexation, and the premier has been hung in effigy. The governor is greatly concerned, and has sent emissaries to London to sound the colonial office as to what support the government would give him in view of a popular uprising.

The City of Berlin Released.

NEW YORK, April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—The treasury department has ordered the release of the steamer City of Berlin. A telegram to Collector Erhardt says there was a serious offense committed, but that it seems to have been partly the fault of the government inspectors. The government did not waive its claim against the steamer, but does not wish to put the company to needless inconvenience while the case is being adjusted. Collector Erhardt says he has discharged Inspectors Close and Kearney for their neglect of duty in this matter.

Sale of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas.

TOPEKA, Kas., April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—Judge Foster to-day, in the United States district court, on the application of the Union and Mercantile Trust Companies of New York, ordered the sale of the Missouri Kansas & Texas railway under the mortgage issued to the trust companies. The foreclosures had been amicably agreed upon and the proceedings were merely formal. The court authorized the receivers to broaden the gauge of the road between Greenville and McPherson, Kas., and to construct a line between Waxahachie and Hillsboro, Texas.

Killed His Sweetheart and Himself.

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., April 22.—Samuel Nelson, of Hesperia, Mich., a Swede, this morning shot his sweetheart Annie Olson, because she refused to marry him. Her father had forbidden the match and the girl objected to disobeying his will. Having killed her as she was going to school, about a mile from town, he fled into the woods, and was found dead with a bullet through the head.

Jewish Priest Brutally Assaulted.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., April 22.—[Pacific Postal Special.]—While out driving this afternoon a mile west of here, Rabbi Cohn, a Jewish pastor of this city was brutally assaulted and perhaps fatally injured by two young ruffians, John Dorsey and John Hendricks. The men were bent on robbery and the minister resisted. Hendrickson has been captured, but Dorsey has taken to the mountains.

BLACK DIAMONDS.

Another Coal Vein Discovered, Only Two Miles From Snohomish.

Snohomish Eye.

Another coal discovery was made one day this week on the farm of D. W. Ditts, two miles south of Snohomish near the discovery reported, last week. Mr. D. was pursuing two bear cubs which entered a deep ravine. After following them for a short distance, his attention was attracted by chunks of coal scattered about the bed of a little stream. The cubs were forgotten, and an investigation showed that the coal came from a vein about five feet in width, out of which issued the little stream. Hearing of the discovery the Oregon Improvement Company sent up an expert, and his report was so favorable that the work of developing the mine will commence forthwith. The croppings resemble the coal at Black Diamond, said to be the best bituminous coal in the northwest, and if the quality and quantity prove to be as good as the croppings indicate, the Oregon Improvement Company agree to open and operate the mine for a half interest, and to erect a smelter at Snohomish for the reduction of ores from the silver, gold, copper and lead mines of the Silver creek and Stillaguamish districts, which are tributary to this place.

PENSION FOR MRS. RANDALL.

Colonel Watrous Thinks the Ex-Speaker's Widow Should Be Remembered.

"If I were a representative or a senator in congress," said Colonel J. A. Watrous, in the Philadelphia Times, "I would lose no time in introducing a bill to give a pension of $2000 a year to Mrs. Samuel J. Randall. Why, do you ask? Because she is the widow of a soldier—a man whose first poor health was experienced while he was a private in the service of his country. But there are other reasons. Do you know that the first man to call particular attention to George H. Thomas as a man who would surely make a great soldier and a successful commander, was Samuel J. Randall, when he was a private in the army? He personally knew the secretary of war, and the secretary of war had confidence in Randall, and he lost no opportunity to advance General Thomas. The world knows now what Thomas was but it seems as though only private Samuel J. Randall knew what he was when he was most needed, and Randall's influence did for the nation, in that one thing, that which was worth millions. Who among the soldiers does not feel a choking sensation when he thinks of the heroic effort made by Samuel J. Randall in 1885, when Grant was dying from that cancer, to have the grand old hero restored to the rank and pay of general?

"Randall died poor. Mrs. Randall is poor. She is as grand a woman as he was a grand man, and a pension of $2000 a year would be a fortune to her. I have constantly opposed the granting of large pensions to rich widows, whether the widows of presidents or soldiers. I never could think it was right to give Mrs Garfield a pension of $5000 a year, when she was worth more than half a million of dollars. I have never thought it was right to give Mrs Grant a pension of $5000 a year, when the book written, almost on his death bed, by Gen Grant, gave her more than three-quarters of a million dollars. Mrs Logan had nearly $100 000 raised for her by good friends, yet congress gave her a pension. But here is a the widow of a poor man, who volunteered at the outbreak of the war, and stayed as long as his health would permit him to stay and who, to a certain extent, has been a physical wreck ever since. His work in the interest of soldiers and their widows, and in the interest of the army is so notable that it seems to me no one, North or South, will raise an objection to the granting of a pension of $2000 to his widow."

The Passing of a Patriot.

Chicago Inter Ocean.

A personal mourner is Charles A. Dana at the grave of Samuel J. Randall. In his paper he has faithfully championed the big democrat, and by his paper, as it has often seemed, he would have liked to make him president. These are the closing words of the Sun's editorial tribute to a man whom Dana admired with the same ardor that intensifies his contempt for Cleveland:

"Happy is the nation which can stand beside the open grave of a great man without a cloud upon its pride at having had such a son. Happy the people in whose day and generation such an example of public and private virtue and of manly, life long fidelity to every obligation has been produced. Happy the age which has possessed a citizen of such generosity and such heroism in friendship so genial, in integrity so complete. And happy above all, in the end of their sorrow, are the friends and family the nearest and dearest of the departed in the consciousness that the man they loved and mourn for was not more great and potent in the service of his country and his party, but was equally true, affectionate, gentle, sincere and spotless in every relation of life."

PENNOYER FOR GOVERNOR.

He Seems to Be the Choice of the Democratic Delegates.

They Are Arriving for Their State Convention by Every Train—The Finances Are Troubling Them

Delegates to the democratic state convention have been arriving since yesterday morning Not the least object of their solicitude is the chairmanship of the state central committee. The name of Mr J. N Teal is being urged by Portlanders, but a general objection is being raised by the country delegates against his appointment. Quite a movement is coming to the front for Ed. McKee The country delegates have confidence in him, and he has the support of a large number of Portland delegates.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Webb will be renominated for state treasurer. The only bearing this has on the state ticket is the nomination for congress The Umatilla delegation are already instructed for J P. Wager The fact of his coming from the same county as State Treasurer Webb, however, is considered against him

The most prominent candidate for congressman, therefore, appears to be R A Miller, of Jacksonville Mr. Miller has been well allied both to the legal and the agricultural fraternities. He is identified with the history of the state, and with his wide political and family acquaintance he promises to add strength to the ticket.

Mr R A. Miller, democratic candidate for congress, was seen by a reporter a few minutes yesterday afternoon. 'There is a great fermentation going on," said he, "among the voters of the state probably necessitating a new alignment of parties There appears to be considerable opposition to Thompson, McElroy and Hermann The rest of the ticket there is very little hope of defeating There are a great many old republicans who will vote the democratic ticket The agitation which the labor party has opened up may tend to our advantage or disadvantage It may prove to draw only the old prohibition vote. The adoption by the republican state platform of the old democratic doctrine may eventually prove to be only a declaration which shall leave the people free to vote for their preferences outside of party lines The recent state elections throughout the country would seem to indicate that the people are beginning to repudiate the republican doctrine of protection."

Several delegates from Baker county have arrived. Among them are I B Bowen, editor of the Baker City Democrat, Jerry White, Hon A. H Brown, formerly state treasurer Dave McCoy and Mr. Shelby, of Malheur county.

Mr. J. P. Faull, a recent notion in showing up as a dark horse in the contest for the republican nomination for state treasurer promises to create a serious split in the republican ranks in Baker. A prominent democrat of that county offered yesterday to bet $1000 against $500 that the county would go democratic Mr Faull wanted to be chairman of the state central committee, and had he kept out of the treasury fight he would have had a good vote for that position

The nominations for the various state offices promise to be largely the result of Governor Pennoyer's preference. The delegates realize that as the chief fight will be made upon him, it is no more than right that he should have a say as to who should accompany him upon the ticket. It is thought, however, that he will feel an extreme delicacy about dictating in that manner.

C F Hyde, candidate for district attorney from the sixth judicial district, will be here to-day It is said that Mr Hyde will in all probability be nominated, and if nominated, elected

Mr. Charles Nickell, of Jacksonville, came in yesterday and was busy shaking hands with his many friends in the city Mr. Nickell was a candidate on the democratic ticket last election for state printer and received a very complimentary vote. He was a candidate before the democratic state convention for secretary of state, but was finally nominated for state printer. Mr Nickell does not covet a nomination on the state ticket, as he is already booked for the state senatorship from his county. He has no idea of making the race against State Printer Baker, who, he says, is sure of re-election. In the senate however, he will be able to do some good for his party.

The renomination of Pennoyer and Webb seems to be conceded. There is considerable opposition developing to the renomination of Judge Thayer There seems to be a disposition to put up a man who will have no strings tied on him and whom the people of the state will have confidence in to give a right decision

Quite a number of delegates are outspoken in antipathy against Chairman Bush for re-selection Grave charges are made against him It is alleged that some $3000 were subscribed in Multnomah county for the campaign, and that when application was made to him for Multnomah's share, he replied "You must take care of your own fight in Multnomah county' He is charged to have sent $1200 into Lake county, or at least to have claimed to have sent it there, whereas Lake county went republican, being usually democratic It is also alleged that the funds of the democratic central committee were used for the sole purpose of electing Strahan, in the interests of Joe Simon, and that no effort was made for any other member of the ticket.

FAVORS A HOMESTEAD LAW

MONMOUTH Or, April 19.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—Every state and territory of this nation, except about three or four has a 'homestead" law or a law exempting an amount of real property from execution for debt. These laws exempt real property of various values from $500 to several thousand. Oregon has no such law

Now that we are electing a number of men to make laws, would it not be well for them to think on the matter, so that when it comes up in the next legislature they may be able to give or refuse their support to it.

Such a law would be a good thing Please call the attention of the people to it through THE OREGONIAN. R C P

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

A Crowded House Greets the Second Presentation of "Erminie"—"Led Astray" at Cordray's

The brilliancy and beauty of the charming opera of "Erminie" attracted another packed house to the Marquam Grand opera house last night and the melodious music and clever comedy of the opera were thoroughly enjoyed It would be far more enjoyable however if Mr De Lange would drop some of his vulgarisms and exaggeration and confine himself to strict comedy

To-night will be produced for the first time in Portland Carl Millocker's comic opera in three acts, entitled 'The Black Hussar," of which the plot is as follows

The scene of the opera takes place in the German village of Trautenfeldt, on the border line between Russia and Germany in the year 1812, during the war between Russia and France The first act occurs in the best room of the burgomaster's house. Hackenbach the burgomaster, afraid that the soldiers of either side who are obliged to pass through the town will carry off either of his daughters makes them disguise themselves as old women in order to hide their attractiveness. Helbert and Waldmann two young Black Hussars come to the burgomaster's disguised the former as an army chaplain and the latter as a student. Love-making under the burgomaster's nose is hazardous, so all sorts of ruses and plans are invented by the lovers to be alone.

The second act takes place in the public square of Trautenfeldt, which is opposite the burgomaster's house Helbert, who is being tracked as a spy throws his pursuers off the track After a lot of queer adventures of the town's people during the war, the act ends with the entry of the 'Black Hussars and one of the strongest military musical finales ever written

The third act transpires in the Black Forest near Trautenfeldt. The town is now free from French and Russians Hackenbach thinking in his great conceit that he himself caused the other powers to vacate the village and thereby rid the neighborhood of a great evil forever, is so overjoyed that he consents to the union of the two disguised Hussars with his daughters

Piffkow, the factotum of the burgomaster, a man of many offices and Barbara a half witted elderly orphan in the service of the burgomaster and considerable merriment to the opera by their grotesque and humorous by play and mistakes, and after many trials and tribulations are joined in matrimony The opera closes with an apotheosis of Germania holding her watch by the Rhine All the participants concluding to trust their future happiness by reading the answer in the stars.

The sale is good and a full house is assured The cast of characters is as follows

Minna, Hackenbach's Rosetta, daughters	Miss Helen Lamont, Miss Emma Hanley
Barbara Hackenbach's housekeeper	Miss Genevieve Reynolds
Helbert (The Black Hussar)	Lloyd W Ison
Waldmann, his companion	Ross David
Hackenbach Magistrate of Trautenfeld	R L. Graham
Piffkow his factotum	Louis De Lange
Thorilliere a French officer	Miss Mamie Corbi
Muffin, a tragedian of the Meinalgmer Co	C E Graham
Rubke Hetman of the Cossacks	S. Porter
First Citizen	F Walsh
Second Citizen	H. Chatham
Third Citizen.	R. Smith

Hussars, Cossacks, Peasants, Girls etc.

Miss Genevieve Reynolds is said to have a role in this opera that gives her the best opportunity for the display of her artistic ability, while Miss Lamont, as Minna fairly captures the audience with her charming vocalism and naive acting

NEXT WEEK.

Joseph Haworth, America's young actor, begins an engagement at the Marquam Grand on Monday evening next in Steele Mackay's masterpiece, 'Paul Kauvar" As the hero of the great play Mr Haworth is impressive and inspiring Beginning with the wild cry in the darkness during the first act and the singularly affecting hysterical laughter with which he awoke, each climax maintains a high plane of power The dream scene in the first act is great, but from here until the final curtain, each scene gains in intensity Mr Haworth's success throughout the country has been great Manager Friedlander's critical opinion is that Haworth makes 'Paul Kauvar" the greatest drama he has ever witnessed

"The Deestrict Skule."

"The Deestrict Skule," which was presented last night at the Tabernacle, drew a very large audience The people were delighted—in fact laughed until their sides ached, and it was no wonder To see dignified dames in abbreviated dresses and pantalets, and judges arrayed in the gingham checked gowns which they first wore to school on their fourth birthdays, was enough to make one laugh till he almost cried The very many amusing pranks and old-time "deestrict skule" rubs, and the ways of imparting a knowledge of the "three R's' contributed to make the scene mirth-provoking in the extreme The entertainment opened by singing the old-time song "Twenty Years Ago," which was rendered by Dr Cummings in a very pleasing manner, and was highly appreciated by the audience

This evening the programme will be repeated, but with many new features Absent boys and girls who had to stay at home yesterday to help their mas pick geese and "mind the babies," will be present to-night. New jokes will be introduced and the entertainment made more amusing, if possible, than on last evening.

The Concert at the New Park.

The sale of tickets for the concert at the New Park to-morrow (Thursday) evening for the benefit of the widows' and orphans' fund of Ivanhoe lodge No 10, K of P, is large Those wishing to get good seats should have them exchanged for reserved seats early to-day at Hoyt's music store. Judging from the rehearsal last evening every one attending will hear a programme of unusual merit rendered by competent artists. The concert, without doubt, will be a financial as well as an artistic success

Cordray's Theater.

"Led Astray" drew another appreciative audience last evening at this popular house of amusement and the respective members of the cast all acquitted themselves with credit

The play runs for the week with a matinee to-day for the ladies and children.

ORDINATION COUNCIL

Interesting Exercises in East Portland Congregational Church.

Pursuant to invitation extended some weeks ago a council of ministers and delegates in accordance with Congregational usages, assembled last Monday afternoon in the First Congregational church in East Portland for the purpose of ordaining Mr F J Culver and Mr. Horace S Lyman to the ministry This council was composed as follows Forest Grove Rev Daniel Staver pastor, Prof W N Ferrin, delegate, and President J F Ellis, Portland, First—Rev S E. Clapp, pastor and Rev Cephas F Clapp, superintendent home missions Portland Plymouth—Rev C T Whittlesey pastor, Oregon City Rev O W Lucas, pastor, Albina Rev J W Sneed, pastor, Daniel Clark, delegate Rev Daniel Staver was elected moderator, and Rev J W Sneed, scribe

Lengthy and exhaustive statements of doctrine were read by the candidates for ordination, after which they were questioned by President Ellis These exercises occupied most of the afternoon

In the evening a good audience assembled in the church to listen to the concluding exercises These consisted of singing invocation by Rev C T Whittlesey reading of scriptures and prayer by Rev J W Sneed ordaining sermon by Rev T E Clapp charge to the candidates and ordaining prayer by Rev Cephas F Clapp extending the right hand of fellowship by President Ellis and benediction by Rev F J Culver Both Mr Culver and Mr Lyman for some years past have been engaged in the work of the ministry but were never formally ordained according to the methods of the polity to which they belong

HE IMPERSONATED ANOTHER.

A deputy constable yesterday brought Henry Matthews from Columbia City to answer a charge of obtaining money from F C Barnes by impersonating one Pete Anderson Matthews obtained sums of money on two different occasions, one amount being $21 and the other $10 He will be called upon to explain why he adopted this ruse to obtain the money in Justice Wood's court at 11 o'clock this morning

NEW PORTLAND HOSPITAL.

The Corner Stone Formally Laid Yesterday Afternoon at Sunnyside.

Address by Dr Kommer—Ceremonies Conducted by Dr Houghton—List of Articles—Some Historical Matters.

The corner stone of the Portland M E hospital building at Sunnyside was laid yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies For this purpose the day was most auspicious. There were about 500 people present mostly from Portland and East Portland while there was a large number of visiting ministers from different portions of the state

The ceremonies took place at the west end of the building where a platform had been erected for the speakers and choir and seats for the audience. At the appointed hour Mr G W Staver announced the time for commencing the exercises had arrived Dr Bushong pastor of the Centenary M E church gave out the hymn which was followed by prayer and scriptural reading. An anthem was then rendered by the choir

The Rev Alfred Kummer of Portland, was then introduced and delivered a very able and fitting address It was eloquent and pathetic and was listened to with very close attention by all from opening to close

CORNER STONE CEREMONIES

Immediately after the conclusion of the address, Dr Houghton conducted the ceremony of laying the corner stone The corner stone is a block about two feet long one foot wide and about ten inches deep An opening was cut in the center to receive the box containing the usual articles After reading the ceremony by Dr Houghton Mr Jas Abraham came forward, and with the assistance of two workmen lifted the stone into its place in one of the center columns at the west end Mr Abraham then took the trowel and closed all the openings with mortar

THE ARTICLES DEPOSITED

In the corner stone were as follows Historical sketch of the hospital copy of the Pacific Christian Advocate New York Advocate, THE DAILY OREGONIAN of April 22 annual report of the hospital The next and most important deposit was a small copper box which bore this inscription

This box contains the notes and mortgage held by James Abraham for $10 000, which amount was due him on the purchase price for the land upon which this institution stands Also a note for $476 against the institution for materials furnished These amounts added to a former gift of $10,000 make the sum of $20 476 donated by James and Jane Abraham to the Portland hospital East Portland, April 22, 1890.

I D DRIVER Agent

The inscription on the stone was as follows "Portland Hospital 1890 ' Having placed the stone firmly in its place, this part of the ceremony concluded by the audience repeating the Lord s prayer

CONCLUDING CEREMONIES

After the laying of the stone Dr Driver, agent of the hospital made a few remarks, in which he stated that in his meetings in the country he had met with marked success in securing subscriptions to the building fund The people look upon the institution as their own Mr James Abraham, who has made such a generous donation was called on, and he responded in a plain, practical way characteristic of the man

The ceremonies were then concluded by the benediction Every one went away feeling that the laying of the corner stone was a most auspicious event at the inception of a splendid institution in behalf of humanity.

SOMEWHAT HISTORICAL.

Without entering into the detailed history of the M E hospital it may be stated the institution is the outgrowth of the combined effort of the four northwest Methodist conferences, namely Oregon, Puget Sound, Columbia river and Idaho conferences It is controlled by an executive committee who reside in Portland, and by trustees appointed from the four conferences named Each congregation in these four conferences take up a collection yearly for the benefit of the hospital and also send patients These are admitted from a dollar upward, and last year $2500 was expended on charity patients It is the second M E hospital in the United States

Shortly after it was started it was seen that grounds and suitable buildings were needed After much deliberation the present site at Sunnyside was selected. When Mr James Abraham sold what is known as Sunnyside tract he reserved 5¼ acres immediately surrounding his old home This ground was valued at $20 000, but Mr Abraham let it go to the hospital for $10,000 taking notes for this amount, which he deposited in the corner stone yesterday. The ground was therefore the gift of James Abraham No better location could have been selected

It is situated on the Base Line road and a short distance from the Mount Tabor motor line, which runs direct to Portland The ground on which the building stands is elevated Beautiful landscapes are on both sides while from the upper part of the building the view for miles will be uninterrupted In this respect nothing is wanting The ground on which it stands was cleared by Mr Abraham. Apple cherry, peach and other fruit trees still on the ground and the blossoms gave forth a grateful fragrance at the ceremony yesterday

The building when completed will be a model of architectural beauty and magnificence At present only the main building is being built. It will accommodate 300 patients when completed An idea of it may be obtained when it is stated that in general it will be in the shape of the letter H The portion now under way is to be completed as soon as possible

The basement and second story are completed, and the third and last story will be added as soon as material can be obtained Next year the medical department of the Willamette university will be moved into the new building but as soon as practicable a building will be built for this department separate from the hospital The entire value of the grounds and buildings now contemplated will not be less than $200 000 Money for this fund is being raised all over the Northwest by the agent, Rev I D Driver, whose time is occupied in traveling and lecturing for the hospital He says the people look up to the hospital as their own enterprise and as an enterprise is attracting as much attention as the Portland hotel

It will be an honor to the entire state and a enduring benefit to humanity the financial shallows and shoals are passed Mr Abrahams cleared away the debt score when he canceled his notes and placed them in the corner stone He did it quietly and without ostentation the same as when he put down $25,000 for the new Centenary M E church

The crowd who went from Portland and East Portland were transferred on the motor in good shape The big six wheel motor pulled three cars of passengers without trouble

FREE LECTURE.

Mrs Katherine Overlin will lecture at the First Evangelical church Sixth and V Last Portland Thursday and Friday evenings, April 24 and 25 Subject, The Christian Sabbath All invited

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity with nearly everybody The run down and debilitated condition at this season is due to impurities in the blood which have accumulated during the winter and which must be expelled if you wish to feel well Hood s Sarsaparilla thoroughly purifies and vitalizes the blood creates a good appetite cures biliousness and headache, gives healthy action to the kidneys and liver, and imparts to the whole body a feeling of health and strength Try it this spring

Hood s Sarsaparilla purified my blood, gave me strength and overcame the headache and dizziness so that I am able to work again I recommend Hood s Sarsaparilla to others whose blood is thin or impure and who feel worn out or run down LIZZIE NASON Lowell, Mass.

N B Be sure to get

The chief reason for the marvelous success of Hood s Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood s Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what it claims to do, is what has made it the medicine of the confidence of our countrymen, and first in the confidence of our countrymen, and first in the confidence of our countrymen, and first in

OREGON STEAM DYE WORK

POLITICS IN IDAHO.

A Tale of Affairs in That Young and Coming State.

VERY INTERESTING INTERVIEW

An Impartial Democrat Reviews the Situation in the Approaching Sovereign—The Numerous Candidates and Their Virtues

Idaho is coming to the front so rapidly that her citizens do not doubt the admission of the territory as a state inside of sixty days The entire northwest has watched her struggle for sovereignty with great interest because it was of interest, and it is but natural to suppose that within her borders senatorships and lesser honors are not entirely overlooked by her people

A democrat of this hopeful commonwealth has been stopping in the city for a few days and with a view of obtaining some information as to the hopes ambitions and probabilities awaiting the statesmen of the new silver state an OREGONIAN reporter called upon him and submitted a few leading questions and the answers if not evasive were perhaps slightly tinged with partisan if not personal prejudices

Do the democrats have any hope of carrying Idaho

Of course they are not without hope When hope is denied to the democracy the republic would end straight up to-morrow like the old guard the democrats will hope for the very best take what they can get and doubtless console themselves lucky if they get anything

What will be the history of the democracy

Reform

"Who will you endeavor to reform?"

My dear fellow the democracy never goes into details It will come in on the broad eternal principle of reform and that is to say it will be the treasury In other words it will be practical politics with the democracy

Have you any Roosevelts in the field?

I do not understand you

Perhaps I am talking in a plain country democrat It were better to use very simple language Are there any candidates for office in your party?

Oh yes yes The woods and gulches are full of them The democracy will ever be true to itself

Who are your candidates for senator?

They are practically agreed upon There is less discord among our people than among the republicans We have less great men than you George Ainslie, of the south and Judge Hagan of the north are the nominees of an unofficial democratic caucus

Are they strong with the people?

Reasonably so. They do say that George used to flirt a little with the Mormon bishops but when the test oath was sustained by the United States supreme court he was (as soon as certain pangs were away) beside himself with joy His reform in this respect is I think quite generally accepted by the true democracy Mr Hagan is all that the democracy or a free people can ask As soon as he learned that Mr Heyburn had resigned his railroad attorneyship he indignantly returned the pass sent him by the Northern Pacific. The people as well as the true democracy love to have their favors free of all corporate influences, and no man knows this better than Mr Hagan

It is smooth sailing for these two gentlemen, is it?

I think so If Mr Frank Ganahl were in Idaho he might be a dangerous factor, so far as Hagan is concerned The true democracy loves Ganahl and he loves the true democracy It is the latter fact that makes him strong He is a powerful orator, thoroughly versed in political matters and he absolutely hates money and men of great wealth who rely upon money instead of brains to give them standing with the public Unfortunately for the true democracy of Idaho, this distinguished leader is a resident of the new state of Washington there was another factor that threatened to injure Hagan He had quarreled with the millionaire, mining speculator John M Burke I understand that this quarrel has been patched up somehow and that each has solemnly sworn not to deal from the bottom when playing with the other This will serve to keep on a bob-tail flush, and if one should so far forget himself as to doubt the other the injured one will forthwith show his hand They mutually promise not to stuff their coat sleeves with cards and anything so insinuating as a request by one to look up the sleeve of another will not be tolerated The true democracy is hilarious over this state of affairs and under its influence each democrat promises to forgive the rascalities of his fellow democrat in the past, and they will now stand united for reform

How about the republicans? Are they as harmonious?

No They have too many great men I have been at some pains to inquire into the matter and have not found one of them who wants anything less than a United States senatorship There are more of them to be cared for hence more conflicting among them Now in the North they have Heyburn Claggett and McConnell Each is great in his own sphere Heyburn is an organizer Claggett an orator and McConnell a capitalist Heyburn has resigned his attorneyship for the Northern Pacific company to the end that it might not be said of him that he is a corporation stickler Claggett is beginning to show his love for the common people Naturally I think Heyburn is more of a patrician than Claggett but his extensive mining operations have thrown him in contact with the honest toiler they have discovered each other's virtues and as a result have learned to love each other Claggett orates and has an abiding faith in the inability of any clique of man high or low, rich or poor, to resist his extraordinary powers McConnell is well known throughout the Northwest as the president of the Independent Order of Grangers, he has won great popularity in this position He has initiated enough voters into the mysteries of this order to elect him to any office and if the membership in that society was confined to Idaho, his election would be as sure as his calling Owing to the absence of so many independent grangers, he will necessarily rely largely upon his bank account, which I am told, is enormous. But he may not find himself any in advance of Heyburn on this proposition, for the latter is minus many properties and as he gains in depth the sound grows louder By the time the senatorial contest is reached this noise from the depths is likely to echo through every canyon in Idaho In these cold, unfeeling times a wealth of words is not reckoned of much value in senatorial contests, and if dyspeptic people are right as to the degeneracy of the times Claggett's polished sentences will weigh but lightly against the business character of a man whose genius has created for himself a checkbook

Has McConnell any opposition in his section?

None worth mentioning It is possible that some one might object, but it could not amount to anything This is the author of politics and I would pity the unfortunate who sought to thwart him in his own country By his own country I mean the country he owns for with his own people he is their guide philosopher and friend In the South Shoup and Dubois are mentioned. Dubois is not slow to make The acquaintance of an Associated Press reporter and as a result what he does is by no means a secret. He don't allow the reporter to overlook anything and his career as a statesman is not fresh in the minds of the people, why it's because the people don't read the papers, Shoup won't cut much figure The politicians don't like him The people like Shoup but as the politicians are against him his name will hardly be on the lips of anyone those lobbyists who want to borrow enough money to take a ticket in the lottery There you have it democracy against republicanism Organized power against the rushing currents of words The flowers of a richly cultivated imagination against the great pasture in which roam the converts to the Independent Order of Grangers, the reputation of the papers and affection of the people all in a mass Pay your money and take your choice

By the way I came near forgetting to mention the fact that I am a candidate myself The other candidates have from time to time told about all they have done for statehood, I shall, at the proper moment, employ a shorter to tell the story of my life The most thrilling chapter in this sketch will be devoted to telling the people how I worked for statehood what trials I endured what strenuous sums I spent and also gather what a great man I am, and what a senator I would make

[illegible] and when my republican brethren [illegible] what they [illegible] I will [illegible] did for

THE POWER OF ALCOHOL.

Senator West's Plea Against Law on the Killing of Miers.

A gentleman just returned from Washington tells the Louisville Courier-Journal about being introduced to Senator West of Mississippi After being introduced the young man stood with hat in hand admiring the senator and waiting for him to speak Like all men in the presence of greatness this young man was awed and he expected the utterances of the great man would be something historic something he could store up in his memory to tell his grandchildren

The senator said I have just been over to the Smithsonian Institute where I saw some of the skill of a man who had the grip all out under a powerful microscope and sir it was fairly alive with animals and reptile that were playing leap frog and jumping around and apparently happy There were microbes all you couldn't rest in that one drop of water and I couldn't help thinking that we are all full of microbes What will kill them? The operator who was showing me the microscopic wonders got a few million of microbes in a corner and dropped upon them a single drop of alcohol and in a second every microbe had turned up his or her toes and was dead That shows the power of alcohol in cases of this kind. What is our duty to ourselves? It is to kill possible microbes before it is everlastingly too late Let us go and take a drink!

The young man said all the time West was talking he felt that he was listening to the voice of wisdom the senator's face became grave and earnest but when he came to the last sentence and invited the party to take a drink to kill microbes just as a rancher would put out poison for wolves he felt as though notwithstanding he seldom drank it was a duty he owed to the country to improve its sanitary condition by taking a drink And yet there are people who think that senators do not have any fun

A DUCHESS HARD UP

She Cannot Run Plenheim Castle in Style on $100 000 a Year

The duchess of Marlborough has indeed come to New York for the purpose of inducing the trustees under the will of her first husband to sell some of the real estate which is yielding no revenue and reinvest the proceeds of such sale so that her present income may be increased

The duchess has a life interest in the the property left by her first husband and at her death it goes to the son of her husband's cousin J Hooker Hamersley if he has issue and if he has not it goes to charities The duchess therefore is anxious naturally to get all the income out of the property that she possibly can

Part of the unproductive property which she wants sold is near to the Fifty ninth street entrance of Central park and it is understood that J Hooker Hamersley is opposed to any disposition of it If this opposition is persisted in the matter will probably be brought into the courts and a second litigation over the Hamersley estate will be precipitated

Those who are well informed as to the Hamersley estate and its makeup say that it aggregates about $ 000 000 Of this amount $3 000 000 is invested in real estate and buildings which yield a revenue and in stocks and bonds The other $2 000 000 is represented by real estate which is bringing in no revenue whatever but on the other hand represents an actual annual outlay for taxes

The duchess income from the stocks and bonds and productive real estate is stated to be over $125 000 a year Out of this the taxes on the other real estate have to be paid and various other expenses met so that her entire income is $100 000 or perhaps even less This of course, she regards as a very inadequate revenue when the value of the entire property is taken into account and probably a great many people will agree with her

She has not felt the want of money up to the present time for the reason that during the first litigation over the estate and subsequently of the income accumulated and since her marriage to the Duke of Marlborough in July 1888 she has been able to draw out from these accumulations nearly $500 000

Now that this surplus is exhausted and she is getting down to a bare $100 000 a year she finds it necessary to bestir herself Twenty thousand pounds a year is a very small sum to support Blenheim Castle and a London establishment even when it is eked out with such small remnants of income as are left to the Duke of Marlborough

If the Duchess is able to make the rearrangement she desires and the $2 000 000 arising from the real estate are well invested she expects that about $75 000 a year will be added to her present income As she will be relieved at the same time of the necessity of paying taxes upon the unproductive property her aggregate income will reach nearly $100 000 and on this amount even a duke and duchess in England can manage to worry through existence

The opposition of J Hooker Hamersley would come from the fact that his son if he has one, is interested in the future of the property and real estate in the neighborhood of Central park is liable to increase very much more in value than any other property in which the money it represents would be reinvested

It is understood that the Duchess is not accompanied by the Duke of Marlborough because she believes that to use the French phrase as a femme sole she will be able to do more than if those opposing her felt that they were really fencing and fighting with the English lord who has married her She says that she expects to remain here until the end of the present month

She is delighted with the reception she has met with at the hands of her old friends having been with Mrs. Stevens, Ward McAllister and others to the theater, etc Everybody who has seen her has been impressed with the wonderful change in her appearance As a mere fact of arithmetic, she weighed 200 pounds when she left here, she now weighs 140 pounds and her figure is exceedingly graceful

DISCOVERY OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN

A Scene Made Grand by Nature's Hand Lovely Gifts

WHILE MEMORY Broke.

It was the 3d of July 1609 when Champlain first gazed upon the lake which subsequently bore his name and which to-day is the sole monument that perpetuates his fame We do not know certainly the exact hour but it was early in the morning when the canoe which bore him glided out from between the overhanging maples and cedars which lined either bank of the Richelieu, and entered the broader waters of the lake The spectacle which met his eyes was one which brought exclamations of astonishment from his mouth, and as his canoe swept onward over the level water new beauties and wider expanses of natural loveliness broke upon his view Even then he was a world wide traveler He had visited Mexico Vera Cruz and Panama The luxuriant loveliness of the tropics and the more sober beauties of semi tropical regions were familiar to him He had seen the best that the continent of Europe had to show He had gazed upon the green meadows of Acadia and the awful grandeurs of the Saguenay But never before had he looked upon a scene of such picturesque beauty and such varied loveliness, as this body of water presented to his appreciative eyes as it lay revealed in the dewy light of this warm July morning

Not a breath was moving in the air The lake between its widening shores stretched before him smooth as glass Through it the noiseless paddles moved the noiseless bark in which he stood and gazed Behind him came the twenty four canoes silently following his silent wake The paddles rose and sank in perfect unison The ochered faces of the Indians and their feathered scalp locks showed brilliantly in the morning light. The air was odorous with the perfumes of gums and flowers Here and there lilies starred the water whitely Large fish leaped splashed and drove their sharpened wedge of motion along the level surface Through the dewy air came the pure sweet notes of the hermit thrush Far overhead the hunting eagle sweeping round and round in watchful circles came to a sudden stop fluttered for a moment and then with rightly balanced poise drove headlong downward into the lake Ducks blakened the water for acres The mother does watched the playful fawns bounding along the sand The lumbering moose waded laboriously shoreward and on the marshy bank stood to gaze Above the sky was sapphire Over the eastern mountains the sun showed redly The mighty woods came to the water's edge an unbroken mass of natural forest The lake to which he was to give his name while living was to be his everlasting monument when dead welcomed his entrance between its shores with the finest expressions of her love Champlain had come to his own and his own received him gladly

BRAVE PIONEER WOMEN

Sturdy Mothers Who Bore Half the Burdens in Early Days.

WINNING OF THE GREAT WEST

How Their Sterling Worth Was Shown in the Settlement of the Plains—Their Fidelity and Courage

Philanthropists temperance crusaders women's rights defenders professional women trained nurses all who are foremost in upholding a principle have had some eloquent voices to praise them some glowing pen to chronicle their successes but their remains a class of women who have been but little sung in the books Can it be forgotten writes Elizabeth Bacon Custer in the Philadelphia Ledger that behind the extreme of the Westward pioneering settler the brave face of a woman looked out from the semi circle of canvas that gathered the wagons over together in front? Perhaps she had on to-day that horse nearer the sunset over a little brood of new and dear hopes a young face appeared without the setting of children face Do you suppose the brave adventurer did not gain courage from the eyes of his wife as he turned back to speak in one of his many words? Could those men have pushed forward over hills have vanquished each day a horde of enemies in the guise of heat drought poor and nutritious food unsatisfactory water all dust beating storms and worse than all the ever present terror of the redman had not the wigwam held the faithful friend and wife who left everything in the way of home comfort recreation social life to push on into the wilderness to make a new hearthstone for the man she loved?

THE QUEENLINESS OF COURAGE

I do not find any women in history who embody to me the very quaintessence of courage like the resolute plain women The Joan of Arcs the Mollie Pitchers were examples surely of courage that poet painter and historian have honored but they were inspired by a great courage by a transcendent sense of the right of their cause They were fanatics in their way The name fanatic is not one that anyone likes but I hardly think many of the great reformers of the world could have been effected without fanaticism It needed the absorbing enthusiasm of their cause to make such heroines forget everything save the work they felt they were chosen to do Many martyrs have been supported on earth with the belief and have gone to heaven convinced that they were chosen from on high to work and to die for a cause

THE HOMES THEY LEFT BEHIND THEM

Our plainswomen were not inspired like heroines of the Joan of Arc type They had oftimes no choice in their lives The hegira said We go West and the wise wife knew usually that it was best not to combat the resolution but to enter into the scheme at once She was of course ignorant of all the trials that she was to meet Like the succeeding man who returned from the border dwelt on the rewards he was then reaping rather than on the difficulties that constructed the way to success But from the first announcement of the intention the woman's self denial was taxed She need not try to look forward to deprivations on the way or at the end of the journey for before she started there came necessity for the utmost courage as she must forfeit so much that a woman holds dear Her church and its Sabbath school for her children the dear association the townspeople who had been with her at the marriages births and deaths of the family the excellent school where she hoped to give her children all the fortune she could ever expect to give them—a thorough education her physician dear to her as her pastor in the sad or dangerous hours of her life Perhaps aged parents clung to her with the knowledge that they would not see her again She must face a life for years at least without schools churches social village communion physicians public library the old fertile gardens and fruit trees and the peace and protection of a comfortable home.

HARDSHIPS PAST PICTURING

As travelers climb the stairs of the National capitol many feet are arrested before the great picture Westward the Star of Empire takes its Course The details of that huge canvas will rescue from oblivion the heroic struggles of our pioneermen It is a peaceful scene but could the artist for a moment veil the landscape in a thick murky atmosphere of penetrating dust or remove the [illegible] that replace it by hail and introduce the sharpest lightning ever known or transpose the sunshiny day into a sirocco where the hot wind scorches the skin and parches the throat, or even picture the downpour of the clouds when week after week the traveler journeys through the wet season the story the canvas tells would be truer to the reality

LIFE IN A TENT WAGON

People would be made to know that when the splendor of a Western sun in spring and the soft cool air of a plains wind in early summer disappears the real life of the pioneer begins If women lived through those terrible days and kept brave hearts, nothing on earth could daunt them Imagine one of them at night after the bivouac was made beside a stream or at the dry bed of what had been one, where they had to dig for water trying to get the evening meal The rain descended though they were in a partially sheltered spot among the sparse timber and it was an effort to kindle the fire with the wet sticks Possibly her frugal habits had taught her to garner a few dry billets from the previous camp The fire at last begins to burn and fighting wind dust rain she cooks the simple fare for her little family They huddle in the wagon for the night but the mother must stop to put on a button or hastily draw together a rent no matter how the candle sputters in the dim lantern nor how crowded and cramped she is during at one end of the wagon The pioneer mother had no reserve nothing with which to dress the sturdy active little bodies next day The necessary stitches had to be taken Thus cooking washing mending helping with the stock and making camp she made her heroic path across the track less waste that stretched on to the Rocky mountains The worst of all there was little or no childhood for the elder children They had so soon to be given the care of the younger brothers and sisters to assist in making fires driving the team carrying water that the faces of little boys I have seen looked careworn at 10 while maternal solicitude and anxiety gazed out of the eyes of a little girl whose slender arms held the baby of the settlers

FROM SUN TO SUN

Not long ago I had what was to me a most fascinating description of a life that was intensely interesting to me A gentleman was playing cowboy and after innumerable vicissitudes he came upon the stone hut of a sheep ranch on a New Mexican plain A 10 year old boy was left in charge He writes It is marvelous how efficient young sisters become in this precocious country Navajo boys care for a whole sheep herd month after month when only 6 years of age He goes on to say of the white boy who had charge of the ranch And my youthful friend Hadelphios at present the sole executive of this ranch Acebachie cook, vaquero and general utility man He warmed us up after our freezing ride with a very enjoyable dinner cared for our horses and acquitted himself manfully all around Next day Hadelphio and I were out all day rounding up a big herd of cattle and driving them in The two others of these premature old children feel the deprivation to them little ones of joyous childhood that comes but once but the two in the great struggle for existence that the people of the border have no other course than to set every available human being at work

SHE DRAWS HER OWN

There were warriors among these sheepherders mothers quiet and modest but still ready to lend a hand in a fight while the men of the party deployed themselves as skirmishers and walked on either side of the wagons The women drove The most timid woman was nerved to action by the sight of her husband in peril and the danger that threatened the little family hidden in the wagon All when women stood the test of hardship and deprivations as was the lot of every one who crossed the plains before the building of railroads what homes they must have made for their husbands What peace and comfort must have sat down on the earth to remain forever! It would be difficult to find a woman to show temper or to provoke her to murmuring or to induce an hour's gloom with any of the ordinary trials of a peaceful life if she had come off victorious under the test of an overland journey And when I sometimes see a plainswoman come for an outing in the states a good deal bedecked and shining with jewels I do not blame the frontier husband for his desire to hang a few trophies of his success on the old woman whom he courageously tells me drove the ox team while I [illegible] juns on our way to the Rockies And ours fall with such people brings me to the very core of patience fidelity and courage

WHERE THE GRAVY WENT

Mrs Newlywed's Remarkable Experience With a Meat Pie

That wee little woman Mrs Newlywed feels in despair of ever becoming a practical cook says the Washington Star It chanced the other night that she had prepared for her dear husband a meat pie and the dish used to bake it in being larger than was needed for so small a family she adopted a little experiment she had been told of by a more experienced housewife and placed in the middle of the dish a teacup upside down to hold up the crust at the central point filling in the receptacle round about with cubes of beef and gravy previously prepared after the fashion of a stew Finally she covered the whole with a neat crust neatly trimmed off at the edges and put it in the oven to bake Dorsan's the way she had learned to make a meat pie

When Edward came home and was ready for dinner it was with no little pride that she placed on the table with her pretty hands the hot dish fresh from the oven and as he plunged his knife through the brown and appetizing crust she gazed with fond anticipation upon the result of her labors the delicious qualities of which were on the point of being developed She was helped first of course of six or eight cubes of beef and the brownest bit of crust falling to her share But she noticed with alarm that of the gravy so essential in a preparation of the sort there was not a single drop She had indeed one of the pieces of meat but it was as dry as Dead Sea fruit

My treasure she faltered I fear there must have been some mistake in the recipe for this pie I never saw a meat pie before without plenty of gravy Certainly I put a quantity in but it seems to have all dried up

I think it very good myself responded the new made husband I am sure that I have never tasted a more delicious pie

As she spoke he was unable to restrain a little choke over one of the dry pieces of beef and the eyes of the young wife filled with tears

I am sure I did my very best to make it nice she said, with a little gulp

My precious

My darling

By this time the formalities of the table had been dispensed with and she was sitting on his knee shedding a few consolatory tears into his napkin When she had regained her accustomed cheerfulness by this natural method she began laughing and then both fell into the merriest fit imaginable Then he asked jokingly

My angel what is that cup for that I see turned upside down in the middle of the dish?

Why don't you understand you sweet old goose was her reply It makes the pie look pretty If the cup wasn't there the crust would sink down in the center

With this she loosened over and lifting the cup between her dainty thumb and fore finger lifted it up—when lo there flowed from the cup into the dish quite half a pint of delicious rich brown gravy It had there all the time but in the [illegible] sinking the cup lifting closely to [illegible] of the receptacle the air inside become rarified by the heat and gravy in the dish in quantity a pint had been sucked up in young husband explained a moment to his bride that no such wicked law [illegible] and called it unnatural [illegible] gravy for her meat pie she will look under the every time or have [illegible] beneath it

SENATOR INGALLS.

His Great Capacity for Misrepresentation.

Senator Ingalls is a man uncomfortable in his power of speech writes Tribune correspondent in a manner that can be made almost a that can be made almost a the cutting sarcasm of his days ago the senate chaplain went down on the floor of the senate to hear one of his invocations and stood about to a point in the near neighborhood of Mr Ingalls's desk where he stood mildly gazing about him a perfectly harmless and inoffensive figure But his presence seemed to annoy Mr Ingalls who was writing Presently the Kansas senator turned about suspending his work for a minute and with pen poised in hand stared deliberately at the chaplain

I hope you had a satisfactory service last Sunday he said

Very satisfactory, indeed and Dr Butler smiling in a pleased way at the interest manifested by the senator from Kansas in the welfare of his church

I hope the collection was large and impressive enough to suit your necessities said Mr Ingalls very deliberately and with that careful and distinct enunciation for which he is famous

The collection was very good I believe said Dr Butler in a somewhat embarrassed tone but I had only an indirect interest in it because it was devoted to the maintenance of the church building

Ah indeed said Senator Ingalls still surveying the chaplain in the same deliberate way his pen still held in an attitude of expectancy as though waiting for the interruption to cease I thought that the collection was for your benefit

Oh no said Dr Butler uneasily and a minute later he turned around and moved away from the neighborhood of the Kansas sena or without venturing to say good morning And then Mr Ingalls too turned about deliberately and resumed his writing

Ireland's Uncrowned King

Pall Mall Post

It is now rumored that Charles Stewart Parnell will soon come to America for holidays He will get there, it is said by lecturing Some of the descriptions of Parnell are remarkable for inaccuracy Scarcely one agrees with another on the make up and personality of the Irish leader and yet there is nothing remarkable about him He is tall slender and courteous and has the air of confirmed ill health His cheeks are pallid his neck thin and his shoulders inbowed in manner he is absolutely and indeed talks the most unparliamentary man in the British parliament, and when it is remembered that he is the target night and day for an endless amount of abuse and assailment, his composure is all the more wonderful His popularity is not only with the people but with the great men of England as well No matter how bitter the denouncement of the Irish leader may be by the conservatives there is always a deep and whole hearted sentiment of admiration for the uncrowned king of Ireland All the talk about the great sum of money which he receives is absurd If he had an income of $10 000 a year I would not be conducive of his comfort in the slightest degree for he would be restricted to the commonest food He does not care for fine clothes and his life is passed entirely in study and work

CHARACTER IN THE TIE.

The Neckwear that America's Great Men Affect.

A SURE GAUGE OF MAN'S VANITY

Studies That Include Grover Cleveland, President Harrison, Matt Quay, Vanderbilt, Depew and Others.

Often a man can be judged by his necktie and collar Men wear neckties in a variety of ways says a contributor to the New York Sunday Press Some put on a gaudy tie to attract attention and for show Others put on a tie in order to appear neatly and modestly before the public Then again some stick a piece of silk or an old tie around their necks because it is a part of the conventional dress of man

A man who wears a loud colored scarf tied in a manner to attract attention is usually a man of small mind Gamblers, spotting men and toughs usually follow this style When a man is seen with a modest tie astened neatly perhaps with a quiet pin he is usually looked upon as a man of refinement Literary men scientists artists and studious men generally have a reputation for tieing very cuckoos and even untidy in their dress They seem to real ze that there is little time to devote to their studies and would rather take all they can for their regular ties and give their thoughts to a much greater degree than by any other means. Can you explain the theory, Charles?

CHARLES (the Husband)—I can't remember all that was told me, but I know the Doctor can give a most clear and scientific statement of the reasons can you not Doctor?

DOCTOR—Well, it is hardly professional to ask such information from a doctor, in fact I am inclined to think he would not be helping his practice much by saying anything in favor of the Charter Oak Stoves But as I have one in my kitchen and know something about it to you scientifically, and we have not time for that Count Rumford an American, who was knighted in Europe for his scientific attainments, pointed out, nearly a hundred years ago, that baking and roasting meats in air tight ovens was wrong and he proved it by actual experiment. He asserted that it was as essential to health that our food should be cooked in pure, fresh air as that we should breathe pure, fresh air and that air tight ovens render the air impure, and the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy But how to properly ventilate the oven was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time The difficulty was to obtain fresh air to enter the oven uniformly without cooking it perceptibly, and this has been accomplished by Mr Filley's invention of the Wire Gauze Oven Door The air enters the oven through the wire gauze in the form of very fine jets, and as there is a large surface of gauze the air is diffused and heated without forming air currents to cool the oven This is called a chemical decomposition with the aid of heat, but oxygen is as necessary to life as food, and life is furnished by the air Again, the meat roasted in a tight oven loses a large part of its most nutritious juices, which become dried out, crystallizing the oven prevents this waste, and the meat is cooked perfectly in the same way as broiling over a charcoal fire or roasting in the old fashioned spit of our grandfather's time Fresh air or the oxygen furnished by this also improves the baking of bread, making it much lighter and more easily digested A strong proof that the bread is pure and healthy

CHARLES—Thank you doctor I think we understand the reason much better now

Scene—First Dinner to the Family Physician by Young Married Couple.

FAMILY PHYSICIAN—Do you know, there seems to be a natural flavor about this food that is most appetizing? What method do you use in cooking it?

LADY OF THE HOUSE—Well, Doctor, when I was at home my mother would have no other than a Charter Oak Stove. From my earliest recollection I remembered how she would praise it, and her cooking was superb So when we were married I insisted on having the same kind of stove Of course the improvements made on them since mother bought hers, are simply wonderful Ours has all the latest including the Fire Gauze Oven Doors, which I understand the process exactly, but they tell me that all meats cooked in ovens with these doors, retain their juices and flavors to a much greater degree than by any other means. Can you explain the theory, Charles?

CHARLES (the Husband)—I can't remember all that was told me, but I know the Doctor can give a most clear and scientific statement of the reasons can you not Doctor?

SKIN CANCER.

Several years ago I was called to see a colored woman who had a malignant form of cancer on her foot The cancerous growth under the prescribed treatment and the toes and one side of the foot were at length taken entirely away. The patient could not have survived much longer but I commenced the use of Swift's Specific and it cured her sound well That was three years ago and there has been no return of the disease I regard Swift's Specific a most excellent med cine for blood disease as its tendency is to drive out the poison

A LIGHT JUDICIAL DAY.

Suits of Allyn Yocum and Wife Against the P. & W. V. Railway Co.

Articles of Incorporation Filed—Sent Up For Sixty Days—A Very Amusing Case—Lewd Cohabitation—The Docket.

The suit of Mr. Allyn Yocum, the Yamhill county farmer, against the Portland & Willamette Valley Railway Company, was brought to a termination yesterday in the circuit court by a verdict from the jury in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $1775. The suits has been in court some time, and was the result of an accident which occurred on the narrow gauge road two years ago last March, at a point near Elk Rock. The road at that point makes an abrupt curve, and on this occasion the run was being made at night. The train was a mixture of stock, freight and passenger cars. In the latter was Mr. Yokum and his wife. Both were badly injured. The lady was hurt about her spine and hips, and will be a cripple for life. The husband sued for $15,000. He has not yet decided whether or not he will appeal.

Mrs. Yokum has also brought suit in the same court to recover damages in the sum of $20,000. The trial began yesterday afternoon, and will doubtless last the greater part of to-day.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Yesterday articles of incorporation were filed with the county clerk by the Clatsop City Real Estate Company. The incorporators are Messrs. C. J. McDougall, W. W. Spaulding and Charles Francis Beck. The capital stock is fixed at $100,000, with shares of a par value of $100 each. The object of the corporation is stated to be the purchase and sale of real estate and the building of a hotel. They will also lay out a town and grade streets, as well as make other improvements.

The Municipal Courts.

The following cases constituted Judge Tanner's levee in the police court yesterday afternoon:

Hugh McGregor was sent up for sixty days because he allowed himself to become a hobo and a vagrant, and Tim Sullivan, the inveterate drunk, whose only consolation in this world appears to be the bottle of corn juice, was given ten days on general principles.

C. Donahue, George Miller and Fred Binder were taxed $10 each for being on terms of too great familiarity with the intoxicating cup, and F. McGinty and Herman Dannery were each fined half that sum for the same offense.

Thomas Maloney was fined $10 for fast driving, and Henry Teal the same amount for conducting himself in a disorderly manner.

Frank Helney, who accidentally broke a wire while at work in front of the Brilliant saloon on Alder street, will have an examination this afternoon.

Several other cases were set for hearing at the usual hour this afternoon.

NITTA AND NITTA DISCHARGED.

The cases of Mr. Ritta and his wife, Nitta, charged with assaulting Amelia Vulpat with a window-shutter, furnished considerable amusement in Justice Wood's court yesterday afternoon. As all the parties concerned are of the French persuasion and none of them could talk very good English, their legal exploits created not a little merriment among the spectators who happened to be in the court.

The alleged assault was not proved to the satisfaction of the court, and as the complaining witness was not shown up in the last light either, the defendants were discharged.

CHARGED WITH LEWD COHABITATION.

Constable Sam Simmons yesterday afternoon drove out the Macadam road to serve warrants on a Mrs. Long and a Mr. Warnock, both of whom reside near the South Portland station, on the P. and W. V. railroad. The complaints charged them with lewd cohabitation. They were brought into court and on furnishing satisfactory bonds Justice Wood released them until Monday morning, at which hour they are cited to appear for arraignment.

A Brief Docket.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

John Simpson vs. the steamer Oregon; exceptions No. 5 to libel of intervenor of John Simpson, sustaining the same. Other exceptions overruled. Exception No. 6 to libel of James Laidlaw sustained. Others overruled.

Can Mackenzie vs. the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern Railroad Co. Ibellant; order releasing ship on filing bond of $50,000.

Account of L. L. McArthur, ex-United States attorney, presented and approved.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT NO. 2.

Bertha Kohn vs. W. J. Becannon; judgment by default.

J. Ferrara vs. Clossett & Devers; case dismissed and papers withdrawn.

OREGON CITY NOTES.

Extension of the Metropolitan Electric Line to the Falls City.

OREGON CITY, April 21.—[Special Correspondence.]—On Saturday George and James Steel accompanied by the engineer of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company came up from Portland, having walked over the proposed extension from the end of the line as now operated. Mr. Steel stated to your correspondent that he expected that the company would soon be in shape to push the extension to Oregon City, but that he could not say definitely as some details had yet to be arranged. Mr. Steel also thought the chances probable that they would keep the line pretty well up on the hill in case they build.

A theft from one of the hotels of an overcoat, a rifle and cartridge belt, is reported as having occurred this morning.

Circuit court convened to-day with Judge F. J. Taylor on the bench. The docket is a light one unless the grand jury shall discover work for the court.

A new cigar factory has just been opened here and the prospect is very encouraging.

The Captain Hedges place above town, consisting of 170 acres was reported sold on Saturday to a party of Portland capitalists for $18,000.

SUBURBAN PARK

Is situated on the line of the West Portland motor line, which is now graded through the property, and cars will be running through SOUTH PORTLAND PARK by July 1. Every lot is desirable, and commands a good view of surrounding country. This park has good water and is fine soil, and will be shortly a most delightful place for suburban homes. SOUTH PORTLAND PARK is only 30 minutes' drive from the city on a good macadamized road, and will be only a few minutes' ride by the motor line. An electric motor line is projected which will pass within two blocks of SOUTH PORTLAND PARK. Lots will be sold for $10 cash and balance in monthly payments of $10. Price range from $75 to $125 per lot. Everyone can save $10 per month from his salary, and it is better to put that amount into real estate than it is to place in a savings bank. For full particulars apply to J. D. WILCOX & CO., 5a7tf 54 Washington st.

GREENWOOD

Adjoins Fulton Park and is one of the most sightly tracts offered on the Portland market. Every lot commands a fine view and is easily accessible by rail or road. West Portland Motor Line, now being built, runs within 30 feet of Chelmsford. Fine soil, fine water and fine speculation. Chelmsford is only one-half mile from the city limits, and there is not a lot in this addition that will not be worth $1000 in a very short time. This addition is placed upon the market for 60 days at the low price of $450 for inside lots and $500 for corners. The terms are one-fourth cash and the balance in quarterly payments. Anyone with $125 cash can purchase a beautiful and sightly lot in Chelmsford which will make a splendid home or be a good speculation. Call early and get first choice. Apply to J. D. WILCOX & CO., 5a Washington st. 6srtf

PORT TOWNSEND, WASH.

Reasons Why Port Townsend Is Destined to be a City Of Great Importance!

REASON 1: It has the best harbor of Puget Sound, from Cape Flattery to Olympia, having the most convenient anchorage over the greatest area, from 5 to 15 fathoms deep, with the best holding ground. There are no bars, shoals, rocks or hidden dangers of any kind throughout the entire bay, which is land locked and well sheltered from the stormy winds and from the heavy ocean swell.

REASON 2: Ease of approach from the ocean. A sailing vessel can run direct from the ocean to the anchorage in Port Townsend Bay, with a westerly wind, or beat up to her anchorage with an easterly wind, the Straits of Fuca being over 12 miles wide, while above Port Townsend to any of the cities the navigation is more intricate, requiring the constant use of tugs. Steamers can run the distance from the ocean to Port Townsend during the densest fogs by aid of their compass alone, there being no hidden danger to apprehend.

REASON 3: It is the port of entry of Puget Sound, and its geographical position is such that it will afford greater facilities to commerce over a greater extent of country than any one position on Puget Sound.

REASON 4: It is at the entrance to Admiralty Inlet and within the lines of the proposed military works for the defense of Puget Sound, and is where the naval squadron will have a rendezvous, and where the government will build a dry dock for repairs, and a naval station for supplies for our naval vessels and the merchant marine.

REASON 5: It will become the great wheat shipping point on the Pacific Coast. It has been ascertained that from the junction of the Snake and Columbia rivers to Port Townsend there is a fall of about 460 feet, and that it is practically very nearly a level grade and that one engine can haul 28 loaded cars to Port Townsend, while it takes two decapod engines to haul 14 loaded cars through the tunnel to Tacoma. The peninsula which lies between Port Townsend and Port Discovery harbors, presents on both these harbors a greater extent of water front than any other position on Puget Sound, both of which can be utilized by a line of railroad, thus offering greater facilities for handling vast quantities of wheat than can be found elsewhere in the whole country.

REASON 6: It will be the headquarters of the great point of transit of all the whaling fleet, which can here ship all their oil and bone to Eastern markets and save 700 miles of ocean travel, which they now have to take to transport these products to San Francisco.

REASON 7: It will be the headquarters of the fishing business. The Union Pacific Railroad Co. stated to the senate committee on relations with Canada who were here in 1889, that they intend putting in refrigerator cars to take fresh fish through on the long haul at greatly reduced rates, and will here ship all the salmon pack, as well as other fish products destined for the interior and Eastern markets.

REASON 8: It is the point of departure for all passengers and freight to British Columbia and Alaska, and its unrivaled scenery makes it the admiration of all tourists who have ever visited Puget Sound.

REASON 9: It is the location of the smelting works of Irondale, on Port Townsend Bay, where the best charcoal iron known in the world is produced. A plant will be put up at these works by the company to manufacture steel plates for boilers and for building vessels, steel rails and all iron material required for railroad construction and every kind of iron for blacksmith use.

REASON 10: Port Townsend, by its geographical position, is intimately and directly connected with Portland, being due north, as can be seen on any map. The Willamette meridian, which commences in Portland as its initial point, terminates in Port Townsend bay, between Point Hudson and Marrowstone Point. The Port Townsend Southern railroad will soon connect the two cities, and Port Townsend will become in fact one of Portland's most important shipping points.

REASON 11: Because on the peninsula between Port Townsend and Port Discovery bays will be built within the very near future the most important city on the Pacific Coast, a city that will be fostered and developed by the United Pacific railroad, which will there have a grand western terminus, from whence proceed lines of great ocean steamers which will bring in the commerce of Asia and China and the south seas.
